

Councillor calls for more people to use historic site

£1.5m BID TO REVAMP PARK

Report by Jamie Brassington

A SENIOR councillor is calling on more people to visit and enjoy a Dudley park where a £1.5 million revamp is in the pipeline.

Planning boss councillor Ian Kettle said he would be delighted if a bid for the extra cash from the Heritage Lottery Fund were to be successful at Stevens Park in Quarry Bank.

A group made up of the Friends of Stevens Park and Dudley Council have already received around £100,000 this year for stage one of the project. Now they are gearing up to submit a bid for the further funding, which would pay for a new community hub and cafe to be built at the park on Thorns Road, near Merry Hill shopping centre.

Councillor Ian Kettle, cabinet member for planning and economic development, said: "I would be delighted if the bid was to be successful. I would encourage anyone to make use of the park."

Proposals for the project include the renovation of Tintern House, a historical former farmhouse in the park, for use as a community facility.

Difference

Quarry Bank and Dudley Wood ward councillor David Sparks, who is chairman of the park friends group, said: "We are hoping that the bid will ultimately be successful because it would make a massive difference to the further regeneration to an historic Black Country park."

Councillor Sparks said the friends, working in partnership with Dudley Council and an unnamed third party, received £100,000 to fund stage one of the project, which will help with submitting the £1.5m bid. The project also aims to illustrate Quarry Bank history at the park, which also includes Quarry Bank War Memorial and sports facilities.

BEANZ MEANZ BATH TIME FOR FUNDRAISER LOUIS

Louis Johnson in the middle of his bath of beans, which helped to raise £197 for the Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge

BRITISH Citizen Youth Award winner Louis Johnson made a meal of his latest fundraiser.

The 11-year-old spent 90 minutes sitting in a bath full of beans and collected £197 for Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge.

The challenge took place during the hospice's family fun day in Oldswinford on Saturday.

It took the contents of 150 tins to fill the bath and Waitrose provided 100 of these free of charge with the remainder being donated by other well wishers.

Louis had no trouble sitting there for longer than the three members of Fizzogs, the dancing grannies, who also took part in the event.

His proud mother Teresa, aged 44, speaking at their Tettenhall Wood home: "He only got out when he did because he wanted to help raise money for Cure Leukaemia and Wolves goalkeeper Carl Ikeme, who is currently being treated for the disease."

Louis, named Young Star of the Year at last year's Express & Star Great Big Thank You awards, became the first person in the West Midlands to receive the recently introduced British Citizen Youth Award last October in recognition of his fundraising.

Family campaign for club to stay shut

Victim – Ryan Passey, aged 24

THE family of a man who was murdered at a nightclub in Stourbridge are stepping up their campaign to get the venue closed

More than 3,500 people have backed a petition to shut Chicago's in the town centre, where 24-year-old Ryan Passey was knifed to death.

Following a temporary licence suspension in the wake of the attack on August 6, Dudley Council bosses have ruled that the club can reopen with tightened security measures.

Ryan's girlfriend, Paige Marsh-Roberts, aged 19, said: "We want Chicago's to close down. It is not the point that it happened in the nightclub, it is the way the situation has been handled.

"We want to get another thousand signatures to get above 4,000, to show the strength of feeling in the town against the venue."

She added: "I would like to thank everyone who has supported us so far."

The local authority will only look at the petition if an appeal is made by the family over the outcome of the licence review hearing. Bosses at the club said the venue would reopen this month but no opening date has been announced.

Outside the club masses of flowers have been left and tributes laid in honour of popular amateur footballer Ryan. Hundreds attended a vigil.

Stourbridge councillor Nicolas Barlow says power to shut the club should be left with licensing and police. "Conditions have been put forward by the licensing panel, so I think we need to see how it develops. We can't just single it out because of this one tragic incident," he said. "I can understand why it has generated this feeling but the powers to shut it down should remain with the licensing and police."

Teenager is locked up after store explosion

A SCHOOLBOY who caused an explosion in a Black Country supermarket just days after the Manchester Arena bombing has been locked up for four years and four months.

The 16-year-old, who cannot be named for legal reasons, caused 'pandemonium' at Blackheath Sainsbury's supermarket when he detonated the homemade explosive in a toilet.

Wolverhampton Crown Court heard the computer obsessed youth had made the bomb following instructions online, using everyday items bought from Poundland.

Sentencing him, Judge James Burbidge QC said the teenager was not a terrorist and did not hold any fanatical beliefs. He said: "You did not intentionally want to cause harm but it was such a highly reckless act that it was fortunate people were not caused harm. Nothing but a substantial custodial sentence is justified."

Blade

The teenager, who wore a bandana over the lower part of his face, strolled into the Halesowen Street supermarket at about noon on May 27. He placed the explosive in a cubicle and detonated it.

Prosecutor Mr Simon Hanns said a cleaner, warned away by the youth, saw he was grasping a blade. The boy, 15 at the time, removed his disguise in an attempt to blend in with panicked shoppers. The store was evacuated and armed police attended.

The teenager, who has Asperger syndrome and was said to come from a loving family, told police he had not intended to harm shoppers or staff. Defence barrister Mr Andrew Jackson said: "This whole dreadful episode appears to be motivated by a combination of curiosity and, almost addiction, to computers."

More than £1,000 worth of damage was caused and the store lost £110,000 revenue. The boy admitted making an explosive substance for unlawful purposes and possession of a blade in a public place.

Young dancers are living their dream

YOUNG dancers from the Black Country are currently living their dreams rehearsing for a professional ballet production.

The double bill of Nutcracker Suite and Ballet Etudes will be staged by English Youth Ballet at Wolverhampton Grand Theatre on September 29 and 30. The EYB will star international principal dancers Phillip Tunstall, Monica Tapiador, Samantha Camejo, Amy Drew and Oliver Speers, alongside local young dancers.

James Garrington, 14, from Netherton is training at the Debonair Dance Academy. He said: "I've danced with EYB before and I am looking forward to being with the professional dancers. I'd like to be a ballet dancer and to dance in the Birmingham Royal Ballet."

Dudley College student Emily O'Connor, who attends the Livingston Academy of Dance, said: "I am really excited about the performance experience at EYB."

Assessment before murder accused due to stand trial

A MAN accused of killing a mother and her teenage son at their family home in Stourbridge is to be assessed by doctors before he stands trial later this year.

Aaron Barley, aged 24, is accused of murdering Tracey Wilkinson, 50, and her 13-year-old son Pierce, who were both stabbed to death at their home on Greyhound Lane, Norton, in March.

Mrs Wilkinson's husband Peter, 47, was also stabbed but survived.

Barley appeared at Birmingham Crown Court last Thursday as details of his trial, set for October 3, were discussed. Wearing a red T-shirt and jogging bottoms, Barley spoke only to confirm his name and had his head bowed during the ten-minute hearing.

Peter Wilkinson was at the hearing, sat in the public gallery alongside daughter Lydia, who was at university on the day her mother and brother died. Mr Wilkinson kept his gaze fixed on the accused for much of the court proceedings.

Mr Karim Khalil, prosecuting, explained that Barley would undergo a psychological assessment before the trial. Barley has not as yet entered a plea to two counts of murder and was remanded in custody until the trial start date next month.

Police arrest key suspect in Brierley Hill murder

A MURDER suspect wanted by police over the death of a father in a Brierley Hill street has been arrested in Birmingham after a nationwide hunt.

Niron Parker-Lee's arrest follows a 10-month manhunt, which featured an appeal on BBC Crimewatch and the offer of a £6,000 reward.

The 19-year-old was wanted in connection with the death of Mansoor Mahmood, who was stabbed to death in Brierley Hill High Street last October.

On Thursday night, Parker-Lee was arrested at an address in Northfield. He appeared before magistrates in Birmingham on Saturday and was charged with murder. He is being held in custody due to appear at Birmingham Crown Court this week.

Mr Mahmood, a 24-year-old factory worker, was knifed in the chest on October 15. He staggered into the Dixi Chicken takeaway, where staff called for an ambulance that took him to Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Birmingham.

But he died a short time later, leaving behind his wife Aisha and two children, Isa and Awaiz.

The search for Parker-Lee was stepped up in June with the reward for information increased from £2,000 to £6,000.

The tripling in reward was thanks to Crimestoppers and money raised by the family.

Ferocious comic in town hall show

COMIC Ian Cognito will be bringing his controversial brand of stand-up Stourbridge tonight (Thursday).

The comedian, who has been called the pitbull of comedy due to his ferocious reputation, will perform at the monthly Kum-n-avaloff Comedy Night on its return to Stourbridge Town Hall at 8pm.

Cognito has been compared to Lenny Bruce and Bill Hicks but has never crossed over to TV, in part at least due to his hard-hitting approach.

He will be joined at the town hall's Wollaston Studio by up-and-coming stand-up Morgan Rees, Pat Gallagher and MC Aaron Twitchen. Tickets, including curry and rice during the interval, cost £8. See www.boroughhalls.co.uk/kum-n-avaloff.html

Have-a-go hero Dipz in to halt robbery

Heroic Dipz Singh and others stepped in

"I don't think they expected it. I think they expected me to back down or run off. I am not going to back down to people like that."

Those are the words of a have-a-go hero who foiled two armed robbers at his local convenience store.

Pardeep Singh, known to all as Dipz, had only popped in at the One Stop in Stourbridge but the 39-year-old fitness instructor ended up face-to-face with two balaclava-clad robbers, each armed with a metal bar.

Rather than run he challenged the thugs, taking each down in turn, and then held them with the help of others until the police arrived minutes later.

Dipz explained that he "got angry" after seeing "terror" on the faces of staff and vowed not to let the robbers escape.

"It was just not fair to run off," he said. "People work hard for their money and for someone to just think they can take that money, that they can make easy money, is not alright. We are a civilised society and there is no place for people like that."

"My family live in that area. What if it had been them in the shop? What if it had of been a child? They should be ashamed of themselves."

The drama unfolded at One Stop in Worcester Street, by Mary Stevens Park, at around 10pm on Friday, September 1.

Three men from Dudley were arrested and later charged, including the suspected getaway driver.

Dipz, a freelance personal trainer at Foundry Gym, Wolverhampton, and at Anchor Gym, West Bromwich, suffered nothing more than a couple of cuts to his hand for his trouble.

Spy car to tackle illegal parking outside schools

A 'SPY car' will patrol Dudley targeting drivers and recording evidence about poor parking near schools.

The vehicle will be out with the start of the new school term in a bid to keep children safe.

Councillor Karen Shakespeare, cabinet member for environmental services, explained: "Illegal parking outside schools puts the lives of children at risk."

The car, which was tested outside some schools in June and July, aims to catch motorists parking on yellow zigzag lines and they could be handed a £70 fine.

The project is costing £60,000 to set up and aims to be self-financing, meaning the cost of running the scheme will be funded by the income generated from fines.

The car-mounted camera will only start rolling when a car has driven over the zigzag lines, thanks to smart technology which detects the road markings. Council officers will sift through the video and anyone captured parking illegally will be sent penalty notices.

Punish

Government policy means the council can only use the CCTV to capture certain traffic offences, such as illegally parking on yellow zigzags and red routes or travelling in bus lanes. The scheme will not be able to punish motorists for illegally parking on double yellow lines, or on white zigzags next to zebra or pelican crossings.

Councillor Karen Shakespeare, cabinet member for environmental services, said: "The yellow zigzag lines are there for a reason - to ensure visibility so children can see and be seen clearly when they cross the road on their way to and from school. We take this extremely seriously."

"People who flout the law and ignore the zigzags will be fined. The new CCTV equipped car should help us catch those who are endangering children. The vehicle will be patrolling school sites on most days and I am sure it will be welcomed by the majority of law-abiding residents, who will be as frustrated as we are at illegal parking."

Out of this world but under the M5

Dudley amateur photographer Phil Ward's intriguing image of work on the Oldbury Viaduct on the M5

IT takes a little while for your eyes to adjust to this photograph, its strange appearance makes it look like the storage bay on a spaceship. But far from being extra-terrestrial, this was taken underneath the Oldbury Viaduct between junctions 1 and 2 of the M5.

The photograph was taken by Phil Wild, a 64-year-old amateur photographer from Lower Gornal.

Mr Wild uses a Canon EOS 650 camera and 70-200mm lens. His inspiration for the photograph was that he wanted to show the work at the viaduct, the subject of considerable concrete repair work which has led to delays on the busy route through the Black Country.

Mr Wild used favourable light and the reflection on the canal to capture this stunning image.

He said: "One of my favourite elements was the line of the canal leading you to the centre of the photograph."

'Low life' thieves stealing from graves

CALLS have been made for security at Gornal Wood Crematorium because 'low-life' thieves have been stealing from graves.

The graves on land off Chase Road have been the subject of thefts of ornaments, vases, lights and other tributes left by relatives.

Dudley Council bosses say they are now looking at stepping up security in a bid to put a stop to the problem.

Councillor Ian Kettle, who is responsible for bereavement services in Dudley, said: "We have had a number of reports of thefts from graves at Gornal Wood Crematorium over the past few weeks."

Police

"We are in close communication with the police, and we are currently looking at our options with regards to increasing security at the site. We have also spoken to staff and stressed the need to remain extra vigilant.

"Such thefts cause great upset to people visiting their loved ones, and we would urge anyone with information to call the police."

John and Margaret Dacre are among families upset after items left at graves were stolen. Solar 'guardian angel' lights have been taken from the grave of their son John on three separate occasions.

John, a machinist from Dudley and died aged 55 in 2012. Mrs Dacre, aged 80, from Bilston, said: "I find it hard to understand why they did it. There is no value there. It upsets me. I get upset if I even speak John's name." Her husband John said: "It was a bit of a shock. People who steal from graves are low life."

Victim has kept knife threat man out of jail

A WOMAN, whose partner held a knife to her throat, has saved him from a jail sentence.

Lisa Shan asked for Steven Timmins to be freed when he appeared at Wolverhampton Crown Court via a video link from prison.

The couple had enjoyed a settled relationship for more than 20 years until he lost his job, said Mr Gareth Walters, prosecuting, who added: "He started to take drugs and his personality changed."

On July 4, Miss Shan returned home from work to find her 36-year-old partner sitting on the back step.

Timmins flew into a rage after Miss Shan told him to go back to his father's home because they could no longer live as they were. Timmins grabbed her round the neck and started to 'strangle' her, before dragging her across the kitchen so he could reach a knife. The defendant pressed the blade to her throat and warned that he would kill her, the court heard.

Terrified

She was terrified but told him she loved him and managed to calm him down. Mr Walters said: "She genuinely thought that he was going to kill her and that he could have done so if she had not talked him down."

Timmins was arrested when police were alerted and had been in custody since then.

Miss Shan told the court: "I am prepared to give him another chance. He needs help for this drug problem. That is what changed him."

Timmins, of Wood Road, Lower Gornal, pleaded guilty to making threats to kill and assault and was given a 10-month jail sentence suspended for two years. He must do 80 hours unpaid work.

Judge James Burbidge QC told Timmins: "Your partner believes you have been punished enough. You owe her a large debt and should repay her by treating her with the utmost respect in future."

Talk on coins will be a nice change

THERE will be a talk on the history of English coins by Phil Griffiths at the Friends of Dudley Archives and Local History Service's at its next meeting, which is being held tonight (Thursday).

The group meets in the archives building in Tipton Road at 7.30pm. Admission for non-members is £2 and refreshments will be served.

Councillor in plea for action on danger road

By Clare Butler

URGENT safety measures are needed on a notorious route ahead of the opening of a new community centre, says a Dudley councillor.

Ward councillor Ken Finch insists action is needed on Priory Road in Dudley, where two people have died in the last year.

A new community centre is set to open within weeks opposite Aldi at the busy junction with Birmingham New Road, sparking fears more traffic and pedestrians could put safety at risk.

Councillor Finch, who represents the Castle and Priory ward, said that the road was getting 'more and more dangerous by the day'.

Speed-calming measures were called for earlier this year, but still nothing has been done.

Now a speed limit enforcement is being asked for because of the community centre opening.

"It is impossible to cross the road at peak times," said Councillor Finch. "We need to remember that there will be more traffic turning into the road and heading towards the community centre when it opens."

Trees

"It is getting more and more dangerous by the day. We need the trees pruned for more street light and we should put a speed limit in place and properly enforce it. We need highway bosses to come up with some ideas, and quickly."

"It seems that the road has just been left alone now but this is a problem that will not go away."

"Every week when we have our community surgeries we are asked by residents 'what are you doing about the road? We are in fear of another tragic accident.'"

Genie-us opportunity for talented Mia

Mia Richards will play Princess Jasmine in panto at Suffolk resort Lowestoft

AN actress who went to school in Lower Gornal is getting ready to hop onto a magic carpet after securing her first professional role in the pantomime Aladdin.

Mia Richards will appear alongside a cast including former Conservative MP Ann Widdecombe and singer Mark Read from boyband A1 for the show's 32-performance run at Marina Theatre in Lowestoft on the Suffolk coast this December.

She says she is 'over the moon' to be playing Princess Jasmine. The 20-year-old, who has just completed her first year at Performance Preparation Academy (PPA) in Guildford, is no stranger to the amateur stage.

She started her musical theatre journey in productions such as Phantom of the Opera, Sweeney Todd and Les Miserables at Elbowes Hall Sports College in Lower Gornal.

After leaving school she went on to audition and study for a BTEC Level 3 Extended Diploma in Performing Arts at Birmingham Ormiston Academy, which saw her perform in shows such as Little Women and Spring Awakening.

Mia has also appeared on stage with West End stars Bonnie Langford and Samantha Spiro for an evening to celebrate the work of composer Stephen Sondheim.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Georgian building for sale at auction

A GRADE II-listed former office building in the heart of Dudley town centre has gone on the market for £400,000 and will be sold at auction.

The heritage building, on the corner of Wolverhampton Street and Parsons Street, in Dudley, has been refurbished and converted into flats.

A buyer for the property will now be sought during an auction at the Moat House Hotel, Festival Park in Stoke on October 30.

The Georgian building, formerly used as solicitors offices, has been a prominent building in the town centre for decades and has been given a new lease of life as upmarket apartments.

Warning over tax con phone calls

POLICE are urging elderly residents to be careful after a spate of phone calls demanding money.

In the latest scam victims will receive a call from someone stating that they work for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs (HMRC), saying tax is owed. The caller then claims that if a payment is not made immediately, the police will arrive to arrest them.

Police say the call is not legitimate and payment should not be made under any circumstance. Anyone who receives such a call should contact Action Fraud on 0300 1232040.

More than half a century of hits

A HITMAKER of the rock 'n' roll era who found success again in the 1970s, Neil Sedaka, has a concert at Symphony Hall, Birmingham, on Thursday, September 14.

The 78-year-old New Yorker's success began in 1959 with Oh! Carol. He had early 60s hits with Calendar Girl, Happy Birthday Sweet Sixteen and Breaking Up Is Hard To Do. Sedaka relaunched his career in the 1970s, enjoying hits with Laughter In The Rain, Love Will Keep Us Together and Solitaire. Tickets are £60 and £51. See tsh.co.uk or call 0121 780 3333.

Bus group expands into Manchester area

PUBLIC transport business Rotala has agreed to buy a bus and minibus services business from Go Goodwins (Coaches) for £692,500.

The firm, based in Tividale, has a fleet of 18 buses and property in Manchester, where it has service contracts. The acquisition potentially doubles Rotala's capacity, expanding into the Manchester area. Rotala, which owns Diamond Bus, also completed the purchase of Hansons (Wordsley) in July.

It's time for reflection as festival of glass ends

ORGANISERS of an international glass festival in the Stourbridge Glass Quarter have hailed the event as a resounding success and thank people for their support.

Director Janine Christley said she was 'proud' of the local community, which helped make the seventh annual event a success.

The four-day International Festival of Glass, featuring the British Glass Biennale, featured work from leading artists in the medium from across the globe.

Ms Christley said: "It has been a huge success. I think people in Stourbridge can be really proud of what they have done. There has been a fantastic contribution here from local artists and visitors from around the country and abroad.

"Some people came to see specific things but have ended up marvelling at other things. The festival has been absolutely fantastic."

The festival ended with a glass auction in the courtyard of the Ruskin Glass Centre with 95 items up for sale

Will Farmer, of Fieldings Auctioneers in Stourbridge, said a total of £8,927 was spent on items ranging from glass eyeballs to vases. The auction lasted for two hours. A glass piano valued at £500, called 'The Sound of Architecture' and made by Karlis Bougustovs, sold for £170. Carrie Fertig's glass lamb sold for £1,150.

Junction work is put back to 2018

WORK to improve safety and reduce congestion at a busy junction in Halesowen has been put back to next year.

The £3 million scheme to overhaul the junction at Dudley Road and Coombs Road in Halesowen started in January, but will not now be completed until 2018.

The final phase of the work was due start last week, and be finished during September, but Dudley Council has rescheduled the work until next year.

The project involves widening the pedestrian islands and increasing the lanes at the junction.

Work has finished on the entrances from Dudley Road, Furnace Hill and Halesowen Road, leaving the Coombs Road entrance for the final phase.

Safety on the agenda

PEOPLE will be able to hear about the work being done by the Community Safety Partnership on October 30 at Dudley Council House, from 6pm. Officials from Dudley Council, police and fire service will attend.

60,000 'missing out' on free bus travel

NEARLY 60,000 people aged over 60 in the West Midlands are missing out on free bus travel compared to other parts of the country, says a Black Country MP.

Research by Dudley North MP Ian Austin has revealed 59,239 local people aged between 60 and 64 have to wait until they are 65 for their free bus pass. But residents in Scotland, Wales and London can travel free on buses when they are 60.

Labour MP Mr Austin is now calling on West Midlands Mayor Andy Street to tackle what he says is a raw deal for people in the West Midlands.

He said public spending per person in the region lagged behind many other parts of the country.

"Over-60s in the Black Country have to wait much longer for free travel compared to those in London, Scotland or Wales," said Mr Austin.

"Many of them have worked hard all their lives and paid taxes which are used to subsidise higher levels of public spending in other parts of the country.

Services

"Bus passes would help the over-60s care for relatives, help look after the grandkids or get involved with local charities or community groups, as well as going out with friends.

"They would also help bus operators increase and improve services for us all.

"Andy Street promised to use the West Midlands' new devolved powers over transport to ensure 'buses and trains are as accessible as possible to older people, and protect the free bus pass'. We need a mayor who will stand up for local people and make sure they get the same level of services that people in other parts of the country take for granted."

The figures show there are 17,649 people aged between 60 and 64 in Dudley, 14,923 in Sandwell, 14,061 in Walsall, and 12,606 in Wolverhampton.

Mr Austin thinks free travel for those aged from 60-64 would be a boost for the region and that free passes would also encourage operators to provide more and better services. This in turn would encourage more people to use public transport, cut congestion and reduce pollution.

Bike route is confirmed despite traders' outcry

EXTENSIVE road closures will be in place next month near Dudley as the controversial Velo cycling festival route was confirmed.

Some 15,000 cyclists will tackle a 100-mile route through Birmingham, the Black Country, Staffordshire and Worcestershire on September 24.

Bosses have confirmed complete road closures will be in place along the route at different times as the cyclists make their way.

The planned closures were met with a backlash from traders who run businesses along the route, concerned about loss of trade on the day.

One couple's wedding is in the balance as access to Blakelands Country House in Bobbington will be restricted due to Velo Birmingham. Paul Morgan, who owns Blakelands, which hosts weddings most weekends, said: "It's chaos. I've got to respond to a girl who's wedding is in two weeks time and she still doesn't know whether her make-up artist or even her registrar will be able to navigate through this."

A meeting was held at Halfpenny Green Vineyards where nearly 40 traders and residents were angry about the closures. There were claims that farmers will block the route with tractors. Bobbington parish Councillor Roger Lewis has called for legal action and South Staffs MP Gavin Williamson wants the Velo to take place elsewhere.

Charity

But local authorities have held firm and insist the road closures will go ahead. They say the Velo is the biggest charity bike ride to ever pass through the region and will aim to raise more than £1 million for charity. The event will start and finish in Broad Street, Birmingham, passing through Sandwell, Dudley, Lower Penn, South Staffs and Worcestershire.

Councillor Karen Shakespeare, environment boss at Dudley Council, said: "This is the first race of its kind to come to the Midlands and is a fantastic opportunity for keen cyclists from across the country to see the best of our region while raising thousands of pounds for worthy charities."

Boxers fired up by sparring event

Dale Flute, of Tipton, and fireman Arron Lennon sparred at Priory Park Boxing Club in Dudley

AROUND 400 people took part in a 12-hour spar-a-thon to help raise funds for a community boxing club.

Bosses at Priory Park Boxing Club in Dudley held the inventive fundraiser during the build up to last month's big fight that saw Floyd Mayweather victorious over Conor McGregor.

The club's members were joined by friends and family, as well as a contingent of West Midlands firefighters, for the epic sparring session.

The fire service uses the gym for training and crew members were keen to get involved.

Club chairman Paul Gough said, "All of the money raised will go to the Priory Park charity. It will help us to invest more in kids and to keep them off the streets. Boxing gives them goals to work towards."

Two rings at the club were in use throughout the spar-a-thon. Donations are still accepted via justgiving.com/crowdfunding/priorysparathon Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges?

IN MY VIEW
with Mark Andrews

Excellent strategy to avoid core problems

GREAT news. Thanks to the excellent policies of local government, the Black Country's main town centres are doing exceptionally well. This is in no small part down to the excellent Black Country Core Strategy drawn up in 2011.

That's exactly what I thought when I walked through Dudley over the weekend, and surveyed the vast array of huge, glossy stores which have flocked to the town over the past six years. All those exciting payday lenders and charity shops.

We know our towns are thriving, because it says so in the consultation document for the Black Country Core Strategy. Yep, it's now time for the great and the good to ask for our vote of confidence, so they can give us more of the same.

Actually, it didn't say Dudley was thriving. Because if you read the fine print of the document – and the councils behind it know that most of us won't – the authors came up with a rather novel way of dealing with Dudley's decline. By redefining a town centre.

Of course, they redefined the Black Country years ago. And while I doubt whether many people feel any great affinity with a Black Country defined by 1970s local authority boundaries, at least we know what they mean.

However, the way that they redefined the term "town centre" is really quite special. Shortly before the publication of their vision, the signs for Brierley Hill town centre were quietly moved. Not just a few yards, but nearly a mile, so they are around the perimeter of the Merry Hill centre. The plan then redefined Merry Hill as being one of the "four strategic town centres for the Black Country", and quietly erased Dudley from the map. And that is the basis of the claim that our "main town centres" are thriving.

If you do want to have your say, consultation closes on Friday, although local councils also have their own definition of "consultation": "The exercise of telling people what they should be thinking, and then setting up a mechanism where only those who support it will reply."

Helpfully, they have decided to cut through the gobbledygook by providing a rather patronising questionnaire for "non-experts", which is filled with platitudes and loaded questions like: "Do you think people's health and wellbeing should be a key issue?" Dunno, can I have a few extra days to think about it?

It also asks: "Should we focus the growth of shopping, leisure and commercial development into our main town centres?" Depends how you define a town centre, doesn't it?

Ed and Geoff pitch in with colourful standpoints

Tom Burke – A number of issues with his role in the latest thriller from the Beeb

Hellboy and back – Ed Skrein, who found things were not all white in the latest superhero reboot

Geoffrey Boycott – did he get caught out making an off-colour comment?

Taking Strike at new TV thriller's realism

DRIVERLESS Lorries to Hit British Roads (headline this week). Precisely. And what else will they hit?

I WAS tempted by one of the ice-cream sweets on offer at a restaurant because it was "garnished with a malted ball." A malted ball? What exotic, sophisticated and perfectly crafted amuse-bouche might this be? Turned out to be a Malteser.

TWO questions hang over the Beeb's latest private-eye drama, Strike. Firstly, would it ever have made it into production if the "Robert Galbraith" who wrote the original novels had not been revealed as one J K Rowling? I doubt it. Secondly, why on earth is everyone so keen to chat to the private detective, Cormoran Strike? Why would the investigating police officer even deign to meet Strike? Why would the murdered woman's driver blab? Why would the concierge at her flat take Strike on a guided tour of the exclusive apartments, including the residents' swimming pool – surely a sacking offence? Take it from me, as one who spent a career trying to get people to talk about awkward issues, it is never that easy.

I SUGGESTED that new laws are needed to make pedestrians behave safely. It turns out to be an ancient argument. Back in 1942, the Autocar Handbook commented on "jay walking" laws in force in parts of Europe. But in Britain "much opposition has come from those who hold the ancient rights of the walker to be inviolable." Nothing has changed. In the name of our ancient liberties we are free to walk – and free to die.

SOME scientists believe dementia could be avoided by adding lithium to our tap water. So let me be the first to alert you to the Great Lithium Conspiracy. It is, of course, a wicked plan concocted by the Illuminati, the shadowy figures who really control this planet, to introduce a sinister chemical into our water to take us over by controlling our minds and polluting our precious bodily fluids. It is part of their Master Plan which also involved kidnapping Elvis, assassinating John Lennon, faking the moon landings and murdering Princess Di (because she knew about the lithium). Do not touch a drop of lithiumised water without first wrapping your head in aluminium foil. Pass it on before they get you, too.

I ADMIT that until this week I had never heard of Ed Skrein. I admit, too, that I had to read reports of his "whitewash" campaign several times before understanding what he was banging on about. In a nutshell, Mr Skrein, an actor, was expected to play Major Ben Daimo in a new film, Hellboy: Rise of the Blood Queen. Then he discovered that in the original Hellboy comics, Daimo (an entirely fictitious character) was of mixed-Asian heritage. After some protests from Asian activists, Skrein turned down the job, declaring: "I must do what I feel is right." For doing so, Skrein is a right-on hero. The Guardian hails his "inspiring protest against the invisibility of Asian people in the media." But the contradictions are endless. How, for example, does Skrein's decision fit in with the modern and thoroughly enlightened trend for colour-blind casting? If we can't have a white Major Daimo, how can we even discuss Idris Elba becoming the first black James Bond? As for the alleged "invisibility of Asian people in the media," what about Bollywood and martial-arts movies which are full of Indian and Chinese stars? Would Ed Skrein turn down the part of Hamlet on the grounds that he is not Danish? If not, why not?

IF you need evidence that our civilisation is in decline, look no further than the bank-holiday queues for cut-price Prosecco at some Lidl branches which descended into ugliness when stocks ran out. "My weekend is ruined," howled one hysterical Twitter user facing the unspeakable horror of having to pay £5.79 for a bottle of bubbly instead of the £3.33 offer. Ruination is not what it used to be.

GEOFF Boycott, a 76-year-old Yorkshireman, will keep his cricket commenting job despite his ill judged comment that the only way for him to get a knighthood would be to 'black me face'. Some accused him of racism for his remark but we should not ignore Boycott's own ethnicity. As 76-year-old Yorkshiremen go, he is a soft old woolly liberal.

TALKING POINT

Time for letting the world see real you

I MET up with a friend recently – one I have known for years and have spent many a pleasant evening over dinner catching up with all her latest family news. I was only too aware of all the problems she had had to face over the past weeks/months but did not feel that I should ask in case it upset her.

So I simply said: "How are things?" To which she replied with a smile on her face, "Just fine thanks" and we moved on. I knew that things were anything but fine but it's amazing how many people spend their lives doing that – painting a smile on their face and pretending everything is all right. And they do say that a problem shared and all that. . .

Maybe sometimes the problems are too personal and too difficult to talk about, and I understand that, but trying to stifle how they feel must surely make it harder to deal with and lead to even more stress.

We are all guilty to a certain extent. How many times at work have people greeted you with a cheery smile and said: "You OK?" for you to reply "Yes thanks". Many times I am sure they really don't want to hear how you actually feel. It is just a greeting not an actual question. Perhaps if you turned round and said: "Well actually I feel sh". they would run a mile. Stress is such a big problem these days and can lead to not eating properly and lack of sleep which add to health worries. In many cases depression is ignored, or seen as a stigma, and so the person is left to deal with it alone.

But these days, with the suicide rate in young people on the rise, there are initiatives that can help. And members of the Royal Family are leading the way.

Prince Harry recently revealed he "shut down all his emotions" for two decades after losing his mother Princess Diana. Harry admitted he sought therapy and took up boxing to combat frustration. Twenty years on and he finally found the strength to open up about the struggles the two brothers faced following their mother's death.

They, along with the Duchess of Cambridge, have teamed up for the Heads Together campaign, which works to dispel the stigma surrounding mental health.

Bringing people together in similar situations to talk about their problems means they do not feel that they have to face them alone. They can learn from people who may have been through similar difficulties how better to cope so that that the smiles people see are not false and they don't feel so alone. Surely it's worth a try.

Worry about debt rather than Brexit

I WAKE up every day and thankfully find I'm not skewered on jagged rocks.

Okay, so Brexit has not yet been accomplished, and if the Remoaners and the traitorous band of EU addicts such as Blair have their way, it might never happen.

Nevertheless, legend had it that by now we would have all ended up at the bottom of a 90-foot deep cliff (remember the Fear Factor propaganda? 'We are sleep walking into falling off a cliff').

This hasn't happened. Maybe it was a bungee jump or maybe there never was a cliff.

The devaluation of the pound (it has been overvalued for years) may have added to inflation and made those continental holidays more expensive but exports are booming as a result and there's plenty to shout about in manufacturing.

Then, of course, we were told all those super-intelligent whiz kids from Europe would be queuing up to leave.

Well, they haven't and more are entering. German and Japanese companies who were also by now on their way out have in fact planned more investment in UK. Employment is at its highest level since Adam was a lad.

As far as I'm concerned, it's not the EU we have to fear for our long term future.

I have said on many occasions, I really worry about the level of personal debt we are piling up.

There will certainly be a reckoning unless this is checked and pronto.

Keep an eye on children with asthma

THE school summer holidays have sadly come to an end. Children are at a much greater risk of having an asthma attack when they're back at school. Latest figures show children were 1.7 times more likely to be rushed to hospital following an asthma attack in September than in August.

Every 10 seconds someone has a potentially life-threatening asthma attack in the UK, so it's important for parents to spot the signs of an asthma attack early.

You should book an urgent appointment with the GP or asthma nurse if your child is: using their reliever inhaler (usually blue) more than three times a week; coughing or wheezing at night; feeling out of breath.

Parents who have concerns can speak to our nurses by calling 0300 222 5800 (Mon-Fri, 9am-5pm), or find more information by visiting www.asthma.org.uk/back-to-school

Cycle race route should stay in Brum

THE Velo Birmingham Cycle Race, as far as I can make out, is described as a new venture to raise funds for 'local' charities. The charities being Alzheimer's Society, Cure Leukaemia, NSPCC and Queen Elizabeth Hospital Birmingham. Of these four, three are national charities.

My grumble? We'll start from the fact that there will be 'rolling road closures' for much of the day! Causing inconvenience, and upset to local inhabitants, and it's only now that people are being informed about them. Why, after objections from local and district councils did the people in Stafford decide to allow it? It's not as if there will be any economic 'bonus' for the people being put to inconvenience.

If Birmingham Velo want a 'Birmingham' race hold it within their city.

Give me a break, officer

MANY years ago, I was pulled by a young bobby at a bike shop in Dudley for only having one brake lever on the handle bars of my fixed wheel bike. He threatened to give me a summons if he saw me riding the bike.

I was so incensed that I went straight round to the library to look at the relevant regulations. The final ruling statement was 'bikes with a fixed rear wheel must have a brake on the front wheel operated by a lever on the handle bars!'

I rode a fixed wheel road bike for years, with no problems.

If young riders of today want to try riding fixed, they should do so during the winter months, because riders of such bikes have more control. Another thing: I learned to pedal, and frequently I was able to hold my own with riders of the day, riding back towards Wombourne after watching races up the Hermitage.

Owner's tale of a garden from scratch

Clent Gardening Club

MEMBERS enjoyed two evening garden visits, firstly, to Langdale at Offenhams near Evesham, followed at the next meeting by a talk from the garden's owner Adrian James.

His talk on "A garden from scratch" was the story behind the garden visited. Children having flown the nest, Adrian and his wife decided to downsize from their large house in Kidderminster (with a small garden) and moved to a bungalow in Offenhams with a large garden laid to roughly mown grass.

Adrian's garden in Kidderminster had been opened under the "Yellow Book" scheme and his target was to create a new garden suitable for opening under this scheme in under four years! They moved in to their new home in 2009 and the target, successfully achieved, was to open to the public in 2013.

Adrian gave an entertaining talk embellished with many excellent photographs as one of his sidelines is producing photographs professionally for gardening magazines.

After proposing a vote of thanks, the chairman and members enjoyed their usual coffee, tea and biscuits following which he announced the results of the monthly competitions and drew the raffle.

The second visit was to New House Farm at Elmbridge near Droitwich. Both were enjoyed, as well as the obligatory coffee and cakes.

Author books in to entertain members

Michael Taylor signs a book for a member. On the right is the club registrar

A RECORD attendance of 40 members an one visitor enjoyed an excellent three-course lunch, before chairman Pauline Handley introduced speaker Michael Taylor, a local author who set his novels in areas around Dudley.

He described the chaos and havoc inflicted by the ex-convict navvies who built the railways and learned of the terrible scenes in Brierley Hill in 1858 when 42 railway coaches travelling from Worcester to Wolverhampton crashed, killing many and injuring more than 100.

Mr Taylor mainly pens romantic novels for women and now writes under the name of Nancy Carson. Several members purchased signed copies of his books at a reduced price.

On August 11, there was a coffee morning at the home of Ann and Mike Rogers. Strawberries and cream scones were served and also there was a very successful bring and buy stall and raffle, boosting funds for charities.

Sue Langley talk about her Great Aussie Adventure on October 13 and Mike Wood MP will inform members about Parliamentary and Current Affairs on November 10.

Summer tea party enjoyed by all

CHAIRMAN Chris Holton presided over the August 8 meeting at Grange Court, Stourbridge. She welcomed 32 members and guests.

The evening saw all members and guests enjoy a summer tea party prepared and served by committee members and their helpers.

Grange E Guild

Sue Wilding held a random raffle, where all members were allocated a number and many prizes were won.

Speaker Jacqueline Hill talked about a children's charity she is connected with. It relies on sponsorship and donations to help to take 30 to 40 underprivileged children, aged 12-to-18, on a week's holiday to Bideford in Devon. A vote of thanks was given.

The normal monthly raffle was then drawn with several prizes.

Army medic Tasha is on desert duty

Private Tasha Cox from Kinver has been training in the California desert with B Squadron, The Royal Yeomanry

FROM their base in the Black Country to the scorching heat of the Californian deserts, it's been quite a change of scene for Dudley's Army reservists, who have been put through their paces in the Mojave Desert.

Members of B Squadron, The Royal Yeomanry – based at Vicar Street in Dudley – have been supporting their paired regiment, the senior light cavalry British Army regiment 1st The Queen's Dragoon Guards.

The squadron conquered exercise Diamond Back in up to 36°C (96.8°F) heat.

Deployed from RAF Brize Norton in August to the United States National Training Centre in South East California, they joined the US Army for training in testing terrains.

Private Tasha Cox, from Kinver, who has been in the Army Reserve for less than 18 months, said: "I get to train alongside regular medics and gain valuable experience. The learning curve has been big but so much fun."

Thug jailed for vicious attack on a woman

A THUG who attacked his ex-partner after breaking a court order banning him from having contact with her has been locked up for 15 months.

The 21-year-old victim agreed to meet Matthew Horton, aged 33, last December in defiance of the restraining order, a judge was told.

The couple, who had split up four months earlier, but went for drinks at The Old Crispin in Church Street, Stourbridge. However, a row flared up as they drove away from the pub in Horton's car.

Miss Samantha Powis, prosecuting, said that Horton, who has a history of violence, lashed out with one hand and fractured the woman's eye socket.

The victim also suffered nerve damage and was left with a constant 'tingling' feeling in her face.

The victim told the court: "I hate this man. We had broken up in August of last year and then this is what he does to me four months later. Now I avoid Stourbridge in case I see him again."

By John Scott

Horton, of Chilton Road, Stourbridge, later admitted: "I struck her as hard as I could."

His barrister Mr Stephen Cobley said: "She had been complicit in the meeting during which they had an argument. He is sorry about the injury and the ongoing effect it has had on her. He accepts that he should not have been having any contact with her but things escalated quickly that night."

The defendant admitted causing grievous bodily harm.

Recorder Adrian Reynolds told Horton: "Your behaviour showed why the restraining order was so important and why you should have abided by it."

Elderly driver rescued after car falls 40 feet

Emergency services at the scene of Monday's car accident near Hagley. AN elderly man escaped serious injury – despite his car slipping 40ft backwards down an embankment.

The driver managed to climb out of the vehicle's sun roof but could not get back up the slope and was rescued by West Midlands Ambulance Service staff.

He suffered shoulder and back pain but the man's injuries were described as 'remarkably minor' by the ambulance service.

The incident happened just before 7pm last night on Ounty John Lane, Stourbridge. A Hazardous Area Response Team (HART) and an ambulance were sent to the scene.

Ambulance service spokesman Murray MacGregor said: "On arrival, ambulance staff found a car that had gone backwards down the steep slope and had turned over onto the passenger side. The man had been able to climb out of the vehicle through the sun roof but was unable to get back up.

"While HART staff went down to the man to treat him firefighters were setting up a rope line set. He was complaining of shoulder and back pain but the injuries were remarkably minor considering where his car had ended up.

"The man was immobilised on a specialist multi integrated bodysplint stretcher and was then lifted back up the embankment to the roadway.

"He was then taken by ambulance to Russells Hall Hospital."

Chloe's charity steps in memory of father

Chloe in fundraiser in memory of her father

A DANCER has organised an evening of song and dance to raise money for a cancer charity in memory of her father who died from the disease.

Chloe Evans, aged 20 from Sedgley, has organised the event for Bowel Cancer UK, a charity she has supported since losing her father to bowel cancer in 2013, at the age of 42. The Worcester University-student has raised £3,000 to date. The event will take place at Colton Hills Community School in Wolverhampton on October 21.

Chloe said: "The evening is to remember my dad, who died from bowel cancer four years ago. The day after would have been his 46th birthday. I like to organise fundraising events in his memory on special dates like this one to turn what could be a sad day into a celebration."

"I have raised over £3,300 for Bowel Cancer UK in memory of my Dad in nine months, and it would be amazing to reach £4,000 by the end of the year."

Chloe's dance group, Ignite Dance Company will be performing at the fundraising event.

Tributes to victim of crash on main road

TRIBUTES have been paid to a man who was killed in a crash on the A449 between Wolverhampton and Wombourne.

Iana Dumitru has been described as 'a nice guy who had a private life' by those who knew him. He died in a crash on August 27 that also left a five-month-old baby with serious injuries.

The red Peugeot 206 overturned on the Stourbridge Road, Penn, just after 6.30pm. Horrified passers-by rushed to try to help on Sunday with one attempting CPR on the man while another picked up the crying baby from a grass verge.

Friends

Shop worker Mr Dumitru, 51, who was from Bucharest, Romania, had been spending the evening out with friends when the accident took place.

A boy aged 16 was questioned by police on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving.

Other occupants of the vehicle, a five-month-old baby, its 23-year-old mother and a 49-year-old woman, were all taken to hospital. A family member, also from Bucharest, said: "He was my mother's boyfriend."

By Clare Butler

"I saw something about an accident on social media and then my mother got in touch to say what had happened. She said they had been on a trip out on the evening to a lake nearby."

"He had been staying with family friends while working in Wolverhampton in retail. He had gone to Wolverhampton for a something better and to be on a one-year work contract."

"He was a nice guy, someone who was okay to speak too. He didn't have any other family than my mother. We are in shock from this tragedy."

Owner's tale of a garden from scratch

Clent Gardening Club

MEMBERS enjoyed two evening garden visits, firstly, to Langdale at Offenham near Evesham, followed at the next meeting by a talk from the garden's owner Adrian James.

His talk on "A garden from scratch" was the story behind the garden visited. Children having flown the nest, Adrian and his wife decided to downsize from their large house in Kidderminster (with a small garden) and moved to a bungalow in Offenham with a large garden laid to roughly mown grass.

Adrian's garden in Kidderminster had been opened under the "Yellow Book" scheme and his target was to create a new garden suitable for opening under this scheme in under four years! They moved in to their new home in 2009 and the target, successfully achieved, was to open to the public in 2013.

Adrian gave an entertaining talk embellished with many excellent photographs as one of his sidelines is producing photographs professionally for gardening magazines.

After proposing a vote of thanks, the chairman and members enjoyed their usual coffee, tea and biscuits following which he announced the results of the monthly competitions and drew the raffle.

The second visit was to New House Farm at Elmbridge near Droitwich. Both were enjoyed, as well as the obligatory coffee and cakes.

Author books in to entertain members

Michael Taylor signs a book for a member. On the right is the club registrar

A RECORD attendance of 40 members an one visitor enjoyed an excellent three-course lunch, before chairman Pauline Handley introduced speaker Michael Taylor, a local author who set his novels in areas around Dudley.

He described the chaos and havoc inflicted by the ex-convict navvies who built the railways and learned of the terrible scenes in Brierley Hill in 1858 when 42 railway coaches travelling from Worcester to Wolverhampton crashed, killing many and injuring more than 100.

Mr Taylor mainly pens romantic novels for women and now writes under the name of Nancy Carson. Several members purchased signed copies of his books at a reduced price.

On August 11, there was a coffee morning at the home of Ann and Mike Rogers. Strawberries and cream scones were served and also there was a very successful bring and buy stall and raffle, boosting funds for charities.

Sue Langley talk about her Great Aussie Adventure on October 13 and Mike Wood MP will inform members about Parliamentary and Current Affairs on November 10.

Summer tea party enjoyed by all

Grange E Guild

Sue Wilding held a random raffle, where all members were allocated a number and many prizes were won.

Speaker Jacqueline Hill talked about a children's charity she is connected with. It relies on sponsorship and donations to help to take 30 to 40 underprivileged children, aged 12-to-18, on a week's holiday to Bideford in Devon. A vote of thanks was given.

The normal monthly raffle was then drawn with several prizes.

GET SAVING ON ENERGY BILLS IN PREPARATION FOR WINTER WITH DUDLEY'S BIG SWITCH

With autumn soon taking its hold Dudley Borough residents are being encouraged to get saving on their energy bills before winter bites.

Dudley Council is urging people to sign up to its latest Big Switch energy switching scheme. The scheme offers residents market leading deals on energy which are not available elsewhere. Residents who have registered at previous auctions have saved up to £300 on their home energy bills, so it's well worth getting registered.

The Big Switch brings people together to reduce their energy bills by switching their energy suppliers collectively. The more people who register the better the deals on offer, as it is based upon the bulk buying concept.

The deals offered by the Big Switch are not available elsewhere, and it has been recently reported that up to sixty percent of top energy deals are not available on the standard switching sites. To get the best deal it is well worth registering.

In recent month's five of the 'Big six' energy providers have announced price hikes for people on standard variable rate tariffs, with British Gas announcing a 12.5 percent rise in its electricity prices. The majority of people are on standard variable tariffs (sixty-six percent according to Ofgem) and can potentially therefore make significant savings by signing up to switch.

Since the scheme began in June 2013 the collective savings made by borough residents has topped half a million pounds.

The latest Big Switch has launched this week. To take advantage of the cut price rates offered, people are encouraged to call 0300 555 2345 to register, or you can register online at www.dudley.gov.uk/bigswitch. People will need to have their current tariff details and fuel usage (shown in the most recent bill) to hand.

The scheme is open to all householders, including people living in rented accommodation, those with a prepayment meter and people with a fuel debt of up to £500 or less.

Cllr Les Jones, cabinet member for housing, said:

"Our Big Switch energy auctions have proved extremely popular over the last few years with thousands signing up to take part and saving hundreds of pounds on their home energy bills. The deals offered through the scheme are market leading, so people will be getting real value for money. With winter on its way now is the ideal time to be registering to save, as well as keeping warm and well at home."

To find out more call Dudley Council Plus on 0300 555 2345 or visit www.dudley.gov.uk/bigswitch.

Save cash on your energy bills

Sign up to Dudley's Big Switch and we will get energy companies to compete to win you as a customer by offering you the very best market leading deals, not available elsewhere.

At previous Big Switches people have saved up to £300 on their gas and electricity bills.

Police blunders that led to 24 data breaches in year

LOSS of technology, misuse of systems and missing encrypted USB devices – those were among 24 data breaches by officers at West Midlands Police in one year.

The breaches over 2016 also included access requests to incorrect addresses and inappropriate disclosure. The latter was the most common incident within the force with seven cases. It can include things like wrongly releasing information to third parties such as personal details, sending information to the wrong people or even putting inappropriate things on social media.

Author brings ancient tales to the library

AN acclaimed author is giving a talk at Kingswinford Library tonight (Thursday).

Natalie Haynes will be at the library in Market Street to speak about her latest novel, The Children of Jocasta, at 7pm. Refreshments from 6.30pm.

Birmingham-born Natalie is a regular contributor to Radio 4, as well as appearing as a team captain on three seasons of Wordaholics.

The Children of Jocasta is the author's second novel. It follows The Amber Fury and The Ancient Guide to Modern Life.

Visitors will be able to ask questions following the talk and have their books signed by Natalie.

Tickets cost £2. All proceeds will go to the Friends of Kingswinford and Wordsley Libraries. Call (01384) 812740 for details about availability.

West Midlands Police have not provided any specifics on the circumstances surrounding their incidents.

There were five cases of 'loss of technology', four of missing USB sticks, three of using insecure emails and three of 'subject access requests' – people requesting what information is held about themselves – which were sent to the wrong address.

Activists

The other incidents included one breach of 'inaccurate information' and another of 'misuse of systems', of which no other details have been released at this stage.

Civil liberties group Big Brother Watch has said more needs to be done to tackle the number of data breaches. The group says it works 'to ensure that those who fail to respect our privacy, undermine our online security, or fail to protect our personal data, are held to account'.

Last year the privacy activists shone the spotlight on police forces by compiling the number of data breaches between 2011 and 2015, revealing West Midlands Police had committed more than double the number of any other in the period (488).

Steaming back in time at 1940s event

Anthony Broadhead of Wolverhampton, Glenn Taylor of Wombourne and Wayne from Bearwood

THE outcome of the Second World War hung in the balance over the weekend as dozens of people flocked to a special event recreating the 1940s.

Telford Steam Railway welcomed visitors from Wolverhampton, Wombourne, Brewood and Kingswinford as the Allies joined forces to beat the Germans.

The event took visitors back in time and gave them a glimpse of the era, encompassing the Spring Village, Lawley and Horsehay & Dawley areas. Attractions included military re-enactments, entertainment from vintage-inspired The Blue Bird Belles, with American Jeeps on display and the chance for visitors to be transformed with hair-styles from 70 years ago.

The Bluebird Belles are a professional 1940s and vintage vocal harmony trio. The group, inspired by The Andrews Sisters and specialising in retro sounds from the 1920s right up to the present day, performed a variety of classic hits to the crowds.

An array of stalls sold vintage-style items. People sampled 40s culinary favourites, including Spam fritters, trench stew and other wartime foods.

1.8m votes 'wasted' in the election

ALMOST two million votes in the West Midlands failed to count towards the General Election result in June, according to new analysis from the Electoral Reform Society.

The campaign group said 1,845,299 votes in the region did not go towards electing the winner – 67 per cent of the overall vote.

Darren Hughes, newly-appointed Chief Executive of the Electoral Reform Society, said: "It is a scandal that millions of people's voices in the West Midlands were ignored in June's General Election."

Undemocratic

"Almost two million votes are being thrown on the electoral scrapheap in the region, under Westminster's broken first past the post voting system."

"At the same time, we see that almost one in five people are swapping parties in the West Midlands – an historically high rate – yet our old-fashioned voting system is failing to keep up. Voters across the region are being let down by the out-of-date and undemocratic way we cast our ballots for the Commons."

Mr Hughes, who was previously deputy chief executive, and a former New Zealand Minister and MP, took over at the helm last month.

Planning to make extensions easier

APPLYING for planning permission in Dudley is set to get easier, according to council chiefs.

Proposals due to get the green light later this month will see Dudley Council adopt a new local development order. This will allow people to obtain written consent for single or two-storey, rear or side extensions.

Kitchens

We can bring the showroom to you

We think a makeover deserves the same level of quality, choice and service as if you were buying a complete kitchen or bedroom.

Your consultants van is equipped with a huge range of samples so that you can actually see what you are getting rather than just choosing from a brochure or website.

You can have confidence in the style, colour, finish and quality. What's more, with our large range you can be confident that you're getting what you want, not just selecting the most acceptable from a cut down range.

Gold standard, as standard

The Makeover Company do things a little differently. As our company name suggests we offer a full makeover of your existing kitchen or bedroom.

Not only do we replace the doors, we can upgrade and reconfigure units to suit your needs as they are today. We can even replace units or add new ones to create a room that works for you.

We can also retro-fit your units with the latest storage solutions to help you make the most of the space you have available.

Less hassle, than a new kitchen or bedroom

Bedrooms

As well as being a lot less hassle than getting a full tear out and fit, it's also a LOT cheaper.

Typically you pay less than half of buying new and have a much less disruptive experience. We are always sensitive to your budget and will always work with you to give you the best possible value.

Simply put, our service is entirely focussed on you and your requirements, not on padding your order to boost our bottom line.

A makeover typically takes a couple of days and we do everything we can to try and keep your Kitchen or Bedroom usable at the end of each day.

We only use very experienced kitchen and bedroom fitters that understand every aspect of how your room works and are sensitive to our customer's lifestyle.

Your consultation

Our advisor will meet with you in the comfort of your own home. They will measure up the units and doors of your kitchen or bedroom and fully access their condition. They will then discuss your requirements and inspirations with you before producing a tailored makeover plan to suit your needs.

We think a makeover deserves the same level of quality, choice and service as if you were buying a complete kitchen or bedroom.

Splash of colour – talented painter Dean Melbourne

Celebrity fashion – Elizabeth Isley

Proving a pint – Halesowen master brewer Scott Povey

Daniel Westwood Studio Family design Artist Felicity Hammond draws inspiration from the Black Country

Masters of their universe

THE wait to find out who are the 100 most talented and skilled Masters from the Black Country is over – at least for some.

Creative Black Country, which set out to identify the 100 Masters, has begun to release the names of those who made the list. Here we feature the first contingent from Dudley nominated by the people of the Black Country.

The year-long regional campaign is aimed at inspiring and offering people a fresh perspective about the strengths, skills, talent and expertise surfacing from their locality and community. Hundreds of nominations were submitted for the June 30 deadline and now the 100 Masters list has been compiled.

Each day until November a Master is being released via the 100 Masters website – with all 100 to feature in the Express & Star. The public will get the chance to get up close to some of the Masters when they appear at a special Expo on November 25 at Starworks in Wolverhampton.

A Master is described as 'a noteworthy person who has forged their own path and displayed outstanding ability that has influenced others.'

Project Coordinator, Liam Smyth, from Arts Council England funded group Creative Black Country said: "The Black Country was forged at the hands of men and women from all walks of life who honed their skills to the highest levels. The final 100 Masters showcase the wealth of talent that our area has to offer."

Those nominated from Dudley include: Artist Felicity Hammond, former Stourbridge College student has been a finalist and nominee for numerous top awards including Saatchi New Sensations in 2014; fashion designer Elizabeth Isley, put her own fashion spin on leather jackets bought in charity shops, caught the eye of celebrities including Kim Kardashian and now has studio in Birmingham.

Artist Dean Melbourne, his work has been accepted for the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition three times; sculptor Luke Perry, whose metal work is seen at locations across the Black Country; brewer Scott Povey, from Blackheath's Fixed Wheel Brewery; digital designer Daniel Westwood, from Halesowen, who has worked with leading ad agencies.

Sing-along will help people with dementia

THE Salvation Army is launching sing-along sessions in a bid to help people who have dementia.

The Sedgley group is one of the first Salvation Army churches to host a Singing By Heart group, which will be held on the final Monday in each month.

Those living with dementia can go along with their carers for a selection of popular Christian and secular songs.

The army is also holding a free hour-long dementia awareness session on Tuesday to give people an idea about living with the illness. The sing-along is the brainchild of The Salvation Army's older people's ministries and its music and creative arts teams.

Margaret Hollis, a local leader, said: "Singing really helps to make both a spiritual and mind connection and people really enjoy their time together."

"We are committed to growing awareness about dementia in Sedgley. We want to welcome people into our future activities within the community."

Singing by Heart launches on September 25 at All Saints Church Hall, Ladies Walk in Sedgley. It will take place at the rear of the hall, opposite the clinic and library. See www.dementiafriends.org.uk for further information.

Football star will give property tips

FORMER England and Liverpool striker Robbie Fowler will be giving tips on building a property empire with a talk in Dudley.

The ex-Premier League star has built up a multimillion pound housing portfolio since retiring from the beautiful game.

A free workshop will take place at the Cophorne Hotel Merry Hill at Brierley Hill on September 14. He will give tips to those looking to invest and get into the market.

22 Teenagers hip hop to the top with Oz groove

Stourbridge Chronicle Thursday, September 7, 2017

TALENTED teenagers from Sandwell and Wolverhampton took on a summer experience with a difference as they joined a professional dance company to put on a hip hop dance show at major venues in the West Midlands.

Pupils from St Matthias School in Wolverhampton have been hosting the three-week residency with London-based ZooNation Dance company to stage a unique take of The Wizard of Oz.

Groove On Down the Road was staged last weekend in the Arena Theatre in Wolverhampton and from September 27 to 29 is being performed at the Patrick Centre at Birmingham Hippodrome.

The show features 25 teenagers from St Matthias, Coppice Performing Arts, Our Lady and St Chad's schools in Wolverhampton and the Shirelands Academy in Sandwell.

St Matthias has raised more than £25,000 to give the students the opportunity to work alongside some of the leading hip hop dancers in the country.

Engaging

Rhimes Lecointe, who is directing the show, is a long-standing member of the ZooNation team and runs her own dance company, Boadicea, in London.

She said: "We love bringing our work to new audiences and engaging with young people; we have been able to select a really talented and enthusiastic cast and the show is a great introduction to our style of hip-hop theatre."

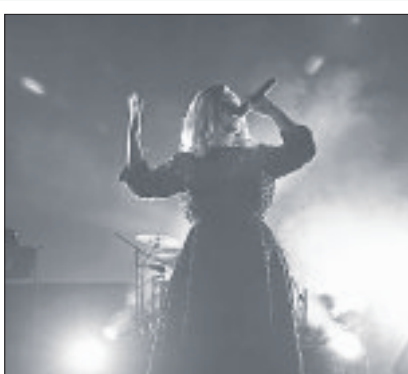

Mya Wright, aged 15, from Our Lady and St Chad's School, is playing Dorothy in the show. She said: "Having the opportunity to play the main part has given me the confidence to believe I can do anything in the future; this is such a cool project."

Councillor Claire Darke, Wolverhampton's cabinet member for education, said: "It is fantastic to see our young people given this incredible opportunity."

The show is staged 7.45pm nightly, see birminghamhippodrome.com for tickets.

The iconic Blood Brothers returns in April

Katie Markham will bring The Adele Songbook to life

Beautiful - The Carole King Musical comes to the Grand in June

Grand! Hello to Adele show

TICKETS for a host of top-drawer shows are now on sale – ranging from classics of the stage to twists on modern classics.

Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre has lined up a variety of shows, including the return of Willy Russell's Blood Brothers.

This will take over the theatre for a six-evening stint next April. The classic drama is one of a number of new shows announced, including a production from Black Country comedy group The Fizzogs, who will be bringing Freezin', their take on Disney classic Frozen, to life.

The Fizzogs, who shot to fame in 2014 after a video of their dancing grannies' routine went viral, will perform at the Grand on November 16, the night after Katie Markham takes the songs of Adele to the city as part of the Someone Like You – The Adele Songbook show.

Katie was hand-picked by Adele herself on Graham Norton's BBC Adele Special in 2015 to take on the role of the multi-million-selling singer for a stage production and has not looked back since.

She will be performing hits from the record-breaking albums 19, 21 and 25 on November 16. Tickets are on sale for a special Afternoon with Christopher Biggins show, hosted by BBC Midlands Today's Nick Owen, taking place on October 27.

Fans will be able to join in with a talk on the career of the 68-year-old actor, who has appeared in programmes including Porridge, Some Mothers Do 'Ave 'Em and Surprise Surprise in what is a unique show for the theatre.

Wowed

Shows on sale for next year, include an evening with Buddy Holly and The Crickets with The Rock and Roll Orchestra. The show has wowed audiences across the globe from Cardiff to California in recent years and will return to Wolverhampton on March 7.

After surpassing 10,000 shows a long time ago, Blood Brothers is still going strong and the show, dubbed the Standing Ovation Musical for its ability to invariably get crowds on their feet at the end of the evening returns, to the city on April 16, running through to April 21.

Bringing the new series of shows to a close is Beautiful – The Carole King Musical, which tells the inspiring true story of King's remarkable rise to stardom.

It goes from her being part of a hit songwriting team with her husband Gerry Goffin, to her relationship with fellow writers and best friends Cynthia Weil and Barry Mann, to becoming one of the most successful solo acts in pop music history. Beautiful will be at Wolverhampton Grand from June 12 to 16. T

Tickets can be bought by calling 01902 429212, in person at the box office or online at grandtheatre.co.uk.

Become a Friend of the Grand by calling the box office or online at grandtheatre.co.uk/sup-port.

Next month marks one year since the Grand raised the curtain on improvements made during a £1.1 million revamp of the historic theatre.

It saw the ground level of the theatre completely redesigned to be more convenient for people visiting the box office for tickets and information.

The merchandise and confectionery kiosk were also replaced by a bar during the work, which bosses said added a touch of razzmatazz to the site and was inspired by 1920s theatres.

Wall of rock spills beans on legends

So, what is it like to hang out with rock stars? Well, that depends on which rock star you happen to be hanging out with. In the case of Ozzy Osbourne, for example, it has always been very easy.

If you recall Ozzy from his hit TV reality show, The Osbournes, you'll have a good idea already. The main word is 'funny'. Ozzy is hilarious. He can't help it. He just is. A very dry sense of humour, delivered with that singsong Brummie accent.

From the first time I met Ozzy, at a rehearsal studio in London in 1980, down on his luck at the time after being sacked from Black Sabbath for being "too crazy" even for them, all I seemed to do was laugh. For years his wife Sharon and I used to joke that Ozzy should have his own comedy show on telly, never imagining that in the future such a thing as 'reality TV' would exist.

Legendary rock writer MICK WALL tells the Chronicle what it's like hanging out with legends such as Guns 'n' Roses, Led Zeppelin, Black Sabbath and Lou Reed as a preview to his spoken word evening at Bilston's Robin 2 in December.

The last time I saw Ozzy was when he and Sabbath played in Birmingham earlier this year. Ozzy was staying in such an enormous hotel suite it came with its own butler. He hadn't changed one bit.

"Bloody hell, it's Mick!" he boomed across the vast space of his 'reception' room. "Come and feel the bolt in me neck!"

He was referring to the slab of surgical steel that now sits pinning his shoulder together, the result of his infamous quad bike accident. "Now I really am the godfather of heavy metal," he laughed. Not all rock stars are as good fun as Ozzy, though.

Some, like Jon Bon Jovi, are much more serious offstage than you would ever imagine from their upbeat image. I knew Jon before he got famous and he was like a kid in a sweet shop. Then after hits like 'Livin' On A Prayer' turned him into a superstar, he seemed to live life with a permanent frown on his face.

Then there are the deeply mysterious ones like Led Zeppelin's leader and guitarist Jimmy Page. On a visit to his mansion one day, Jimmy took me into a room where he sat in an armchair. Like some James Bond villain, he had a secret panel of buttons built into it.

Jimmy pushed one and the opposite wall slid back to reveal four massive oil paintings. "What do you make of these?" he asked, nonchalantly. I walked over and had a closer look. All the paintings seemed to depict similar scenes. Some sort of lavishly depicted ancient garden in which there were tiny forms of hundreds of humans writhed in pain and torment.

"Very nice," I said with a straight face. Then he took me outside and showed me the garden. It was about the size of the West Midlands.

For most rock stars it really is all about girls and cars, though.

Phil and I would walk into a pub and he would tell me to grab a table and wait for him. I'd sit down while he stood at the bar, jacket collar up, stooped over looking glum. Within minutes a young woman would walk over and ask him what was wrong, why he was so down? Phil would sigh. Then another young woman, sometimes two or three would join him and want to know the same thing.

He would buy a tray of drinks and lead the girls over to the table where I was sitting. I would be expected to help keep the talk going while Phil would lead the girls outside one by one and, well, get to know them better.

When it comes to cars, it's hard to think of any rock star I have known that has been more obsessed than the late Status Quo guitarist Rick Parfitt. He would ring me sometimes and hold his phone next to whatever new revving engine he'd just acquired – could be a brand new Porsche, or a vintage Rolls Royce. "Just listen to her purr," he'd say, almost purring himself. He'd soon grow bored with them though and go and buy another.

I recall one occasion when I visited him at his riverside home in London, and he took me to see his brand new Bentley Continental. He proudly showed me around the car, told me the whole story about how he was one of the first 50 people in the world to have one.

I rang him a couple of weeks later and asked how he was getting on with his new car.

"Oh, that," he said. "I sold it. Bought myself a brand new Merc." Or was it another Roller? I can't remember now. Whatever it was, it would definitely have purred though.

X Factor's Diana has Look of Love

Diana Vickers, who found fame on X Factor, will recreate the magic of Dusty Springfield when she stars in Son of a Preacher Man at Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre from Tuesday to September 16.

The production tells the story of three broken hearts, one Soho hang-out, and the only man who could ever help them.

Diana was thrilled to be asked and announced the role on Instagram: "Very excited to announce I will be starring in the brand new stage show of Son of a Preacher Man. "Very much looking forward to working with a great team on what I think will be a gem of a show! Hope to see some of you there."

Choreographer Craig Revel Horwood added: "I am delighted to bring to life for the very first time this wonderful story created by Warner Brown, with soulful songs from the legendary Dusty Springfield's iconic music catalogue.

"I hope that audiences will come to love this warm-hearted and uplifting new musical as much as I do."

New Alexandra Theatre spokeswoman Fiona McCartney says: "Welcome to the Preacher Man, the swinging 1960s Soho joint where the kids danced the night away to the latest crazes and dared to dream of love, while the legendary owner, The Preacher Man himself, dispensed advice to cure the loneliest of hearts.

"Only, that was a long time ago and all that remains are the memories, the stories and the myths. Until now, that is, when three random strangers, generations apart but all in need of help with their hopeless love lives, are inexplicably drawn to the site of the original venue.

"The Preacher Man is long gone, but his son, with help from the wonderful Cappuccino Sisters, might just find it in himself to channel the spirit of The Preacher Man and once more give these three lovesick strangers the look of love."

ATTENTION

The play features the greatest hits of Dusty Springfield, including The Look Of Love, I Only Want To Be With You, Spooky and the classic Son Of A Preacher Man.

Directed and choreographed by Strictly Come Dancing's Craig, it stars Diana (Little Voice, Rocky Horror Show, X Factor), Debra Stephenson (The Impressions Show, Bad Girls, Coronation Street) and Ian Reddington (Benidorm, Shameless, Robin Hood).

Diana first came to the public's attention when she was a semi-finalist on the 2008 edition of X Factor. She hit the road with her fellow finalists after the show before landing a career in the West End.

She had been prepared for stardom by taking singing lessons as a youngster in Blackburn – though she didn't sing professionally until adulthood.

Her X Factor entry came about with a cover of Damien Rice's hit The Blower's Daughter, which dazzled Louis Walsh and Cheryl Cole among others. Simon Cowell described her as a Marmite artist – who he loved.

He later signed her to his label and her debut album, Songs from the Tainted Cherry Tree, later became a number one and earned her a gold disc.

Gradually, the star also developed an acting career after starring in a newly-revived West End production of Jim Cartwright's The Rise and Fall of Little Voice in October 2009 at the Vaudeville Theatre, on The Strand, London.

She played a character called Little Voice, impersonating such singers as Shirley Bassey, Edith Piaf

Diana will bring the hits of Dusty Springfield back to life

Hard work – in rehearsals and Judy Garland.

She also moved into the movies after landing a debut film role alongside Clint Eastwood's son in The Perfect Wave, which was about surfing and the power of life and death. Diana developed a fashion line, described as boho-chic and hippie-influenced, that was inspired by Brigitte Bardot and Marilyn Monroe. And she has remained busy ever since, combining her fashion dreams with roles in theatre.

Most recently, she played Janet in a touring production of The Rocky Horror Picture Show. And there are plenty more roles that she'd like to play. She's a fan of Grease and would like to play Sandy. "I'd love to. Although Rizzo would be incredible, you'd rather be Rizzo wouldn't you, because she's just sexier? I like bad characters!"

Though she works formidably hard, Diana takes time out to switch off and relax. Her favourite hobby is reading and she gets sucked into a good book.

"I do a lot of baking when I'm stressed. And I love exercising, running, gym classes, yoga, interval training. Then just normal things like chilling with my friends, playing music loudly . . . and having a glass of wine after the show always helps!"

The Human League

1980s hit-makers are in a League of their own

One of the biggest British bands of the 1980s will be giving fans Electric Dreams when they perform at Wolverhampton Racecourse on Saturday.

Synth pop legends The Human League will be in concert following a race meeting on September 9.

The Sheffield new wave outfit, led by Phil Oakey and also featuring vocals from Joanne Catherall and Susan Ann Sulley, will play as part of The SunBets Music Live 2017 meeting at Dunstall's all-weather track.

The band, famed for their cross-Atlantic number one hit Don't You Want Me – which sold more than 20 million – will play their classic 1980s hits including Love Action, Mirror Man, Fascination and Human.

When the group played in the city in December 2014 at the Civic Hall, an Express & Star review of that gig hailed the group as 'modern pop music perfection'.

The Human League have returned to the area in recent years and they performed at Uttroter Racecourse last year, marking 35 years since the release of their best-selling album Dare!

Since 1978, the Human League have released nine studio albums, four EPs and 30 singles with Don't You Want Me entering the top 20 again just four years ago.

Tickets to the event start from £35.95 with family tickets for £110. These can be bought directly from the racecourse by calling 01902 390 000 or online at the wolverhampton-racecourse.co.uk website.

The flat racing takes place from 5.25 to 8.30pm with the concert held after the final race.

Dave is back on the home Beat

The Beat, featuring original co-frontman and singer Dave Wakeling, have a homecoming gig in Birmingham for the musician who now resides in Los Angeles.

The gig on Friday, September 15, part of a UK tour, is Wakeling's first in the city since the death of the original band's Birmingham-based veteran saxophonist Saxa.

Wakeling has been putting the finishing touches to his first studio album under The Beat moniker since Special Beat Service in 1982. Tentatively titled Here We Go Love, it's an album of uplifting ska rhythms, infectious pop hooks and some Californian sunshine which reflects Wakeling's adopted home.

The Beat exploded out of Brum in 1979 as part of the same ska/rock/reggae scene that launched The Specials and UB40. Dave Wakeling enjoyed further success in the States with supergroup General Public and released a solo album No Warning in 1991.

Wakeling has played an estimated thousand shows as the frontman of The English Beat, most in the USA where he continues to command a devoted audience.

Straddling 2 Tone, post-punk, The Beat had a host of hits – including Mirror In The Bathroom, Too Nice To Talk To, Hands Off She's Mine and hit covers of Tears Of A Clown and Can't Get Used To Losing You.

For tickets to see Wakeling's seven-piece incarnation of The Beat at Birmingham's O2 Academy 2, supported by Frantic Action and Ruder Than U, see academymusicgroup.com/o2academybirmingham/ website.

Another version of The Beat, featuring Ranking Roger, are touring with The Selector.

Cannonball (ITV, 7pm)
Andrew Flintoff hosts the action-packed game show, in which 24 contestants are tasked with traversing a series of water-based challenges and custom-made inflatable obstacles, each designed to test their speed, accuracy, height and distance. The most successful contestants then claim a chance to launch themselves 'cannonball-style' at a moving target on the surface of a deep-water tank, all in the hope of nabbing the show's 'priceless' Cannonball Cup. Frankie Bridge, Radzi Chinyanganya, Ryan Hand and Maya Jama all join Andrew at the poolside to commentate on the action.

Duo are caught up in a web of intrigue in new series

Typical – you wait months for a new six-part series from Jack and Harry Williams, the writers and creators of The Missing, and then two come along at once.

Yes, on the same evening that BBC1 launches Relik (killer spelled backwards, in case you were wondering), ITV brings us Liar. At first glance, the Beeb's series bears more of the Williams' hallmarks – just as The Missing played out across different timelines, Relik starts with capture of a serial killer, and then goes back to the beginning to explore what made them into a murderer.

However, Liar has a simpler idea, which was part of the plan. The Williams siblings say: "We were excited about exploring something with more dramatic simplicity – a linear story focusing on one single incident."

"In Liar we sought to explore modern day gender politics through a narrative built upon two fundamentally conflicting recollections of one night, in a way which we hope will challenge and surprise audiences."

If that wasn't intriguing enough, the series also boasts an impressive cast, including Downton Abbey's Joanne Froggatt and one-time Fantastic Four star Ioan Gruffudd, who was tempted back from Hollywood to tackle his role in Liar.

He says: "The reason I'm back home in the UK, and back on British television for the first time in a decade is Harry and Jack's script. I received their scripts in LA, the first three episodes, and sat down to read the first one and then proceeded to read all of them in one go. I just couldn't put them down."

He stars as Andrew Earham, a widowed surgeon who is set up on a date with his colleague's sister Laura (Froggatt), who also happens to be Andrew's son's teacher. She's been reluctant to look for love following the end of her long-term relationship, but their date initially seems to go very well.

However, the morning after it's clear that something has changed as gossip and accusations begin to circulate, and the two find themselves drawn into a web of deceit.

Gruffudd says: "When Andrew is accused it offends him greatly, his status in the community is very important to him. He's a very proud of what he has achieved, and I think it shakes him to his core, he's angry, and he's shocked. I think one of the driving forces of his anger is the fact that how he is perceived by the world has changed, and I think that really makes him angry."

But is he right to feel aggrieved? It seems that getting to the truth is not going to be easy. Gruffudd says: "Every character in the show has secrets that are revealed at some point or another. We all hide things from one another, we all tell white lies, innocent lies, and sometimes those lies can be exaggerated and can have real consequences. So, not every person in the series is who they are cracked up to be..."

Ioan Gruffudd stars in Liar, Monday, ITV, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

Upstart Crow

BBC2, 8.30pm

New series. Liar is desperate to make a good impression with the College of Heralds so he can get his family a coat of arms and finally make the Shakespeares posh. So when African royal Prince Otelio comes to town, the aspiring playwright decides that befriending him is the perfect opportunity to make a favourable impression amongst the gentry. David Mitchell returns as William Shakespeare in Ben Elton's comedy, guest starring Steve Toussaint, with Harry Enfield, Paula Wilcox, Liza Tarbuck and Mark Heap.

TUESDAY

Horizon: Mars - A Traveller's Guide

BBC2, 9pm

The world's leading experts discuss where they would go on Mars, if they got the chance, and what they would need to survive on the planet. In the ultimate traveller's guide to Mars and using real images and data, Horizon brings Martian landmarks to life, from vast plains and towering volcanoes to deep valleys and hidden underground caverns, and also show where to land, where to live and even where to hunt for traces of extraterrestrial life. Narrated by Mark Gatiss.

WEDNESDAY

The Other One

BBC2, 10pm

A comedy about two sisters who share the same name, Catherine Walcott, but had no idea the other existed until their father passed away. One sister, Cathy, has a fiancé, a Duke of Edinburgh Award, and a pension. The other sister, Cat, has a pay-as-you-go phone. The two sisters are complete opposites in every way, and the only thing they seem to have in common are their names. Both of them have always longed for a sister – just maybe not each other. Starring Ellie White, Lauren Socha and Rebecca Front.

THURSDAY

No Limits: Vietnam

BBC1, 8pm

For the curious with long memories, this is not a revival of the old Lisa Maxwell/Jenny Powell entertainment series from 30-plus years ago. Instead, it centres on six Britons who embark on an ambitious road trip by modified motorbike and modified 4x4 along Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh Trail. A tricky enough trek for the able bodied, but as everyone on the journey is disabled, travelling almost 1,000 miles, through traffic-jammed cities to mountainous rural tracks pushes our ambitious travellers to breaking point. They will be staying with remote indigenous people; exploring stunning cave systems, and meeting locals – many of who live with disability courtesy of the Vietnam War. A refreshingly different travelogue which should inspire millions.

Lego Masters

Channel 4, 8pm

The three remaining teams are challenged to create a build that reflects the inner workings of a child's storytelling imagination. They must each listen to a six-year old's story and then have three hours to bring their tales to life using Lego. Comedy drama, starring James Nesbitt, Leanne Best, Hermione Norris, John Thomson, Fay Ripley and Robert Bathurst.

Finnish off with Moomin magic TOSSED between clawing waves with only a wooden oar and magician's top hat, Moominpappa embarks on a whimsical journey to find a distant lighthouse.

It's 34 years since I read the story of a snouty patriarch who frolics with seahorses and befriends The Groke, a desperately lonely figure scarred with a permanent scowl, who turns ground to ice wherever she treads.

But I do recall a handwritten inscription in my copy of Moominpappa At Sea, promising the Moomins would take me on a special adventure one day.

Now I'm standing in front of a first edition illustrated book sleeve, part of a 2,000-strong collection of drawings, triptychs and related paraphernalia on rotated display at the world's only Moomin Museum, which recently opened in Tampere, a two-hour train ride north from Helsinki.

PHENOMENON

Since Finnish artist, sculptor and illustrator Tove Jansson published her first book in 1945, the magical Moominvalley has become a worldwide cult phenomenon; children are drawn to the playful, fanciful characters, while the droll humour and philosophical allegories resonate with an older audience.

Tove's Moomin work was donated to the Tampere Art Museum in 1986, after Helsinki City Museum declined the collection on the basis it wasn't 'proper art'. A temporary exhibition of 100 pieces in the Tampere gallery's basement lasted for three decades, until structural damage resulted in an evacuation three years ago.

Moomin Museum Director Taina Myllyharju was given an 'almost unlimited' budget to employ the best architects, artists and designers in her quest for creating a new space in the park-fringed Tampere Hall.

Visitors to the impressive Helsinki Cathedral

The Rauhaniemi public sauna in Tampere

A reading library stocks the 12 Moomin books in multiple languages, and a shop sells themed postcards and stamps (conveniently, there's a postbox on site) and exclusive merchandise given the seal of approval by Tove's niece, Sophia Jansson.

"We even have the world's only Moomin conservator," Taina proudly proclaims.

Restoring the works, particularly the detailed triptychs Tove worked on with her life partner, graphic artist Tuulikki Pietila, was a painstaking business. Often, the women would use anything they could find lying around in the summer cottage they shared on remote island Klovharu. These colourful 3D scenes were ephemeral snatches of imagination; they weren't designed to last.

Crossing a wasteland on spindly, insect-leg stilts, Moomintroll and Sniff stare up at a cobweb-shrouded model schooner. The Jansson family heirloom forms the centrepiece of a tableau from the apocalyptic Comet in Moominland, which critics have linked to post-war gloom and the looming spectre of nuclear attacks.

And in another carefully crafted model, pieces of Pietila's and Tove's own jewellery festoon a winter scene where Christmas is a fearful creature who must be appeased with a fir tree.

I get the impression that with every seashell collected and each piece of Styrofoam painted and glued, the two artists climbed further into their fantasy world and the act of doing became a form of escapism.

Under the cover of darkness, I comfortably sink into the Moomin's make-believe world, with the help of several interactive displays

Uncertainty sees landlords review their portfolios

Many landlords have reviewed their portfolio sizes and increased rents in response to the ongoing political uncertainty in the UK, according to a new piece of research.

When asked how they had been influenced by the uncertainty since the European Union referendum and snap general election, some 38 per cent of landlords said they had reviewed the size of their portfolios to ensure they could withstand any creeping costs.

The latest sentiment index from Foundation Home Loans also found that seven per cent have sold off properties to either reduce portfolio sizes or diversify, rising to 19 per cent for those holding 20 properties or more as PRA policy change edges closer.

Some 30 per cent have increased rental prices.

"Landlords have been met with a raft of changes, from stamp duty charges to shifts in tax policy, and the lack of certainty on the political front has clouded the picture somewhat.

"The response has been to streamline larger portfolios and protect income by increasing rents," said Jeff Knight, marketing director at Foundation Home Loans.

"The fact remains that, whether it's as a stepping stone to home ownership or a longer term lifestyle decision for tenants, the rental sector is an increasingly important part of the housing mix.

"This will ultimately be best served by a wide choice of property, and good landlords who can have confidence in decent returns," he added.

Supply at new low as demand soars

The supply of homes available to buy in the UK in July was at the lowest level recorded for the month since 2002 while demand also increased.

Overall the number of properties available to buy on estate agents' book dropped from 37 to 35 in July, according to the latest monthly survey report from the National Association of Estate Agents (NAEA).

The data also shows that the proportion of sales made to first time buyers fell 30 per cent in June to 23 per cent in July, the lowest level seen since last September when the rate was also 23 per cent. The last time it was lower was in November 2015 when 21 per cent of sales were made to first-time buyers.

Typical of this time of year, the number of sales agreed per branch fell in July. In June there were 11 sales agreed per branch, compared to just eight in July.

Seasonality hit house hunters, as the number of people looking for properties fell 10 per cent from 384 per branch in June, compared to 347 in July, the lowest it has been since November 2016 when 344 potential buyers were registered per branch, however a considerable increase from July 2016, when just 298 were recorded.

Cooling economy leads to a slowdown in house price growth

There was a modest 0.1 per cent fall in property prices in the UK in August while annual house price growth slowed to 2.1 per cent from 2.9 per cent in July, the latest index shows.

The report from lender the Nationwide also shows that stamp duty revenues have reached all-time highs in cash terms, reaching £12.8 billion in the 12 months to the second quarter of 2017, well above the £10.6 billion peak recorded in late 2007.

The slowdown in house price growth to the two to three per cent range in recent months from the four to five per cent prevailing in 2016 is consistent with signs of cooling in the housing market and the wider economy, according to Robert Gardner, Nationwide's chief economist.

He pointed out that the economy grew by 0.3 per cent per quarter in the first half of 2017, around half the pace recorded in 2016. The number of mortgages approved for house purchase moderated to a nine-month low of 65,000 in June and surveyors have reported softening in the number of new buyer enquiries.

"Nevertheless, in some respects the slowdown in the housing market is surprising, given the ongoing strength of the labour market. The economy created a healthy 125,000 jobs in the three months to June and the unemployment rate fell to 4.4 per cent, the lowest rate for over 40 years. In addition, mortgage rates have remained close to all-time lows," he explained.

"It may be that mounting pressure on household finances is exerting a drag. Wages have been failing to keep up with the cost of living in recent months and consumer sentiment has weakened. While measures of housing affordability are not particularly stretched at a UK level, pressures are evident in some regions, especially London and the south of England," Gardner added.

"Ultimately, housing market developments will depend on wider economic performance. The UK economy slowed noticeably in the first half of the year, and there has been little to suggest a significant rebound in the months ahead. While employment growth has remained robust, household budgets are under pressure. This suggests that housing market activity will remain subdued," he said.

"Nevertheless, constrained supply is likely to continue to provide support for house prices. The stock of homes on estate agents' books remains close to 30 year lows and the number of new homes coming onto the market remains subdued. As a result, we continue to expect prices to rise by around two per cent over 2017 as a whole," he concluded.

The cooling of the property market is no paradox when you factor in the impact of rising inflation, low wage growth and ongoing consumer uncertainty around the longer term impact of Brexit, according to Jonathan Samuels, chief executive officer of property lender Octane Capital.

"Essentially, people are feeling the pinch and that will always impact property prices. But the property market can only cool so much given the ongoing lack of supply. When there are so few properties for sale and being built, prices can only go so low," he said.

"The three per cent surcharge on second homes and buy to let properties has been a major driver in surging stamp duty revenues. This has been one of the most fundamental changes to the UK property market for many years and its effects are already evident," he pointed out.

"The punitive level of stamp duty at the higher end of the market has seen this area of the market cool down significantly. So while people are paying more, there have been far fewer transactions. At the higher end of the market, new stamp duty rates have affected countless transactions and so whether this is contributing to increased revenues is open to question," he added.

Residents plan makeovers to create dream home

Just 22 per cent of people in Britain live in their dream home but many are taking steps to do so with planning applications rising for extensions, loft conversions and basements.

Research from Halifax Insurance also shows that living in an expensive home does not always mean it is a dream home with 62 per cent owning a property worth more than £500,000 saying it is not ideal.

A new kitchen is top of the list of those wanting to have a dream home and porches and conservatories have fallen in terms of popularity at a time when 22 per cent of owners have spent at least £11,000 on improvements in the last two years.

But it is not just small jobs that home owners are opting for. The research also shows that planning applications for basements have increased.

Overall, total planning application numbers have increased by 27 per cent across the country while single-storey extension applications are up by 49 per cent and loft conversions by 43 per cent since 2012.

There are, however, signs that enthusiasm might be cooling. From June 2016 to May 2017, the year-on-year increase in planning applications is less than two per cent, a significant slowing from the six per cent growth seen over the same period a year earlier. While 37 per cent of home owners want a new kitchen, the research also shows that 22 per cent want bigger rooms, 19 per cent want extra bedrooms and 17 per cent want extra bathrooms. Indeed, an extra bathroom is more popular than a swimming pool.

Twice as many women as men would look for a separate utility room, while twice as many men as women want a games room.

"The way we live in our homes is evolving. Take the example of basements and the trend for extending downward. This is probably down to a lack of space in our cities and towns, and it represents a big shift in the way we think about our homes. If we look back to Georgian and Victorian times, the basement is where you'd have found the kitchen and the servants' quarters and was certainly not viewed as a space to be used for family life," said Melanie Backe-Hansen, historian and author of House Histories.

"The place of the kitchen has changed dramatically. In this study it takes the top spot on Britain's dream home wish list, yet in historical terms the kitchen is a relatively modern invention," she added.

Jeremy Ward, head of Home Insurance at the Halifax, pointed out that home owners carrying out work on their property need to let their insurer know and said there is concern that just 14 per cent of home owners say they have notified their insurer before beginning work.

"It's imperative to have the necessary insurance policy in place whilst carrying out the work and equally important to update insurance when the job is complete as failing to do so will invalidate the policy.

"On the positive side, however, having a burglar alarm or CCTV installed as part of home renovations could help reduce premiums, and also provide extra peace of mind," she explained.

A chassis rethink transformed the car

Audi cabriolet is good-looking and as nicely crafted as ever

By Ian Donaldson

It doesn't take long – a few metres and a couple of potholes will do – to discover that the new Audi A5 Cabriolet is comfortably better than the car it replaces.

For, like the A5 Coupe and four-door A5 Sportback it joined, this soft-top Audi aims to add more than style to the ownership experience.

High on the list of must-have changes was comfort. Or as an Audi spokesman said: "The cars now have a much more compliant ride. It was perhaps a little bit too firm, especially for UK roads."

"Hallelujah!," you might shout in reply after years of Audis that performed beautifully on (Germanically) smooth roads but went to pieces on a typically pockmarked UK surface.

Better late than never, though.

This chassis rethink has transformed the car, tested here in the latest Cabriolet form and as good looking and nicely crafted as ever.

The two petrol engines are a 2.0 litre with 190 horsepower and the 3.0 litre six-cylinder in the 155mph S5 range topper with its eight-speed auto gearbox and quattro four-wheel drive.

The car is bigger but it is snug in the back

It will hit 62mph in 5.1 seconds and consume petrol at an average of 36.2mpg in the official test, with CO2 emissions of 177g/km and a list price topping £40,000.

This latest A5 Cabriolet is a little longer (+47mm) and a fraction narrower (-8mm) than before. Stretching the distance between front and rear wheels by 14mm and designing thinner seats have improved space inside the cabin, though it remains snug for adult-sized passengers in the rear.

They won't mind the lack of stretching room in a car designed to look good with roof up or down – it retracts in 15 seconds at the prod of a switch and closes in 18 seconds, both operations possible at up to 31mph, which will stop pedestrians in their tracks if attempted in a busy town centre.

Practicality is assured by a boot that measures 380 litres with the roof up or a still reasonable 320 litres with it folded. The rear seat has a 50/50 split if you need more luggage room and the boot lid now opens with the standard remote control key or a button in the driver's door.

Weight savings of up to a modest 40 kilos (it varies by version and the lightest newcomer still tips the scales at 1,690kgs) have come from moves as varied as high strength steel for the new front seats, an aluminium brake pedal – and even using lighter carpets.

As well as adding lightness the latest cabriolet also has a stiffer body, always hard to achieve when you cut the metal roof off a design. That ought to reap benefits in both ride comfort and fewer squeaks and rattles from the roof.

Or, in the case of this car, no squeaks or rattles at all. Yes, there was the mildest shimmy on bad surfaces but not enough to matter, or really even notice after the first couple of miles.

Hood down and mesh wind deflector in place, a sunny day with 9C showing on the dash brings fresh air heaven even at a 70mph motorway cruise.

Drop down to 60mph and you wonder if a hood is ever required apart from when the rain arrives – the cockpit is so cosy and quiet.

There is plenty of pull when needed and you'd really not know a diesel was doing the work until you checked the trip computer to discover even used with enthusiasm the car is returning better than 40mpg.

How comfortable does that make you feel...

CHASE AWAY THOSE POST - HOLIDAY BLUES

A BRAND-NEW MG3 COULD BE YOURS FROM JUST £99 PER MONTH

With summer holidays coming to an end, now is the time to look at what you'll be driving when you go back to work, college or university in September. With interest free credit, there has never been a better time to invest in a new car packed full of extras.

The daily commute could now be enjoyed for as little as £99 per month, or with a minimum part exchange of £1,500, if you take advantage of the colourful, fun and sporty MG3. With four trims in the range, there's a car for every budget. The entry level MG3 Time is a whopping £4,000 cheaper than the equivalent Fiesta, coming in at just £8,695.

A highly competitive price doesn't mean the MG3 lacks high-spec features. Each model comes with a dazzling array of technology as standard; a refreshing change from competitors that offer an endless list of additional expenses. The top-of-the-range MG3 Style+ includes cruise control, 16" diamond alloys, Bluetooth connectivity, reverse parking sensors and leather seats as standard. Not bad for a car that costs just £11,695.

The MG3 also has an exceptional amount of space and versatility, hidden in a very compact five-door package. Accommodating five, 6ft tall individuals easily, the MG3 offers an extraordinary amount of space for a compact car.

Customisation is key to chasing away those post-holiday blues. Available in eight trendy colour options, the MG3 also benefits from a range of graphic packs, with designs from classic Trophy Stripe to sleek Waves, all from just £280, excluding fitting. Or why not go for a subtle touch of colour with wasabi, pink or red mirror caps from just £70, while black, white, red and grey accents are available for your wheels from just £720.

Praised for its sporty performance, great handling, spacious boot and stylish design, the MG3 is a very popular car for first time drivers. Complete with a class-leading 4E insurance rating, the MG3 is cheaper to run than many other Superminis, making it a perfect car for those looking for affordable and customisable style.

Phoenix rise to occasion against old favourites

SPORTING FEATURE

By Joseph Masi

A HOST of football favourites rolled back the years in an exhibition match to raise money for grassroots football.

Stars including Don Goodman, Martin O'Connor, Tony Daley, Lee Naylor and James Chambers were all in attendance as a Midland Ace Legends side played out a 3-2 thriller with Walsall Phoenix Veterans.

The event was held to raise funds for Phoenix, who ply their trade in the Staffordshire County Senior League Premier Division.

In glorious sunshine at Aldridge Cricket Club, more than 1,500 people packed in to watch the game and enjoy a host of other attractions including live music, food stalls, bouncy castles, inflatable games and a licensed bar. There was also a 20-team football tournament with junior sides from across the region.

Walsall heroes Ray Graydon and Chris Nicholl took charge of the Midlands Ace Legends' side.

Delighted

But the managerial greats couldn't add another win to their glittering CVs – with Phoenix running out victors.

Their boss, Tom Revitt, admitted he was delighted with how the day went.

"It was absolutely great for our lads to play against some big names," he said.

"To share a pitch with someone like Don Goodman is great for people, like me, who have always enjoyed playing lower league football.

"We had a great turnout, more than 1,500. And what was nice is that football was only half the day. We had live bands, plenty of entertainment for children and a junior football tournament as well.

"It took a lot of work but it's crucial we hold events like this.

"As a club we have got 25 teams now and the cost to run them last year was £60,000.

"We don't have the opportunity to bring in big money through sponsorship – although some of the local businesses do help.

Kenny Mower and Wayne Thomas

"This event will prove a huge benefit for us in terms of raising money to keep paying those running costs. We hope it will be the first of many."

The Midlands Ace Legends side had been put together by former Walsall midfielder Wayne Thomas. He is now hoping to hold more fundraising matches with other grassroots sides, as well as charities, across the region.

"We put together the Midlands Ace Legends because at charity days or fundraisers there is an appeal to have players who have played for different clubs across the region," Thomas said.

"Chris Marsh is a very good friend of mine and has a lot of contacts.

"We put this side together so when people ask about fundraising days we can cater for all football fans in the West Midlands.

"We had a lovely day, a great turnout and hopefully we'll be able to support other clubs and charities in the future." Arguably the biggest draw on the day was former Saddlers boss Graydon, who twice won promotion during his time in charge at the Banks's Stadium.

The former Villa winger also netted the winning goal in the 1975 League Cup final.

And the 70-year-old, who now lives in Hampshire, admitted he thoroughly enjoyed being back in the Midlands.

"It was fantastic for me to be back around supporters of Walsall," he said. "I absolutely loved it. I wanted to come back because I think events like this are so important.

"It costs an awful lot of money to run a football club, just to keep going, so I'm very happy to help." Spectator Maurice Walsh, from Bloxwich, said everyone enjoyed the day.

"I really enjoyed it and it was great to get autographs from the ex-pros," he said.

"I think having a Midlands Ace Legends side is a very good way to raise money for grassroots football."

Sparring partners go head-to-head in ring

MANNY ZABER and Jack Summers will renew acquaintances after the draw for Black Country Boxing's Super Series: The Super Featherweights was made.

Eight Midlands boxers will compete over three nights to be crowned the Midlands Area Super Featherweight Champion. Quarter-finals take place at Walsall Town Hall on Sunday, October 15, over six three-minute rounds.

Old Hill's Zaber and West Bromwich's Summers are both managed by BCB head of boxing, Errol Johnson, and have shared the ring countless times as sparring partners. Zaber boasts a superior record but Summers is a tough competitor who will be looking to cause an upset.

Chasetown's Luke Jones steps in with Leicester's Joe Ducker.

There's a Second City derby as Birmingham's Paul Holt meets fellow Brummie Waqas Mohammed, while former stablemates and fellow Tamworth residents Louis Fielding and Tamworth's Josh Baillie go head-to-head.

Players on oche for more Grand Slams

THERE will be, at least, another two Grand Slam of Darts at Wolverhampton Civic Hall after the PDC released their tournament calendar for 2018.

The competition will see its 10th anniversary at the Civic in the usual month of November and will also return next year.

Holder Michael Van Gerwen will be back for this year's Slam, from November 11-19. Six-time winner, 57-year-old Phil Taylor, will be featuring for the last time.

New sponsors have come on board to back the next two Grand Slams, Austrian-based betting company Bwin replacing Thai brewers Singha Beer. Tipton's Jamie Hughes is on course to be the Black Country presence, due to his world ranking of No.3 with rival organisation the BDO. One player from the BDO will feature in each of the eight groups with those certain of their places being Glen Durrant and Danny Noppert, plus the Grand Slam debut of Peter Machin, 2017 World trophy winner.

The 2018 Grand Slam has been booked at the Civic for November 10-18.

£1m ex-Wolves star gives talk for hospice

BRITAIN'S first £1m player, former Wolves player Steve Daley, will be giving a talk this month to raise money for a hospice.

The Sportsman's Supper, with fish and chips, takes place on September 22 from 6.30pm, at Stafford Rangers Football Club, Marston Road, on the Astonfields Industrial Estate. It has been organised by Katharine House Hospice in Stafford.

Guests will be able to enjoy dinner while the former footballer talks about his life and career journey which started when he was 15 years old.

Daley joined Wolves as an apprentice and signed as a professional in 1971, making his debut as a substitute in a 4-2 win over Nottingham Forest in September that year. He played more than 200 times for Wolves before moving to Manchester City for a then British record transfer fee of £1.4m in 1979. Two years later he crossed the Atlantic to play in America.

Tickets for the night can be bought for £15 per person at <https://www.khhospice.org.uk/product/kick-katharine-evening-event>

DK runners successful in city marathon

DUDLEY Kingswinford Running Club members didn't have far to travel with a combination of races taking place in Wolverhampton as part of the city's marathon.

Darran Bishop was first home for the hoops in the half marathon, covering the 13.1 mile distance in 1.26.54 to take 18th place, Dave Norman was not too far behind finishing in 1.28.37 in 21st place and Mark Homer was breathing down his neck in 23rd in 1.29.24.

Helen Tromans claimed first place in the ladies race and was invited into the hospitality tent as a result, claiming 31st place overall in a time of 1.31.19.

Roger Beddard was 143rd in 1.46.00, Nick Ma was 263rd in 1.55.22, Hannah McGuire was 384th in 2.08.57 and Lisa Kendrick finished a place and one second behind. Nicola Wilkinson finished in 541st in 2.41.03.

Taking on the shorter 10k race at the same event Simon Hughes put his lack of training aside to come home in 40.44 to take 20th place and Kathryn Sneyd was 86th in 50.57.

Stretton

Elsewhere, Richard Bate took part in the Stretton Skyline, a 19-mile fell race over the Shropshire hills taking in some high-burning climbs up Ragleth, Caer Caradoc, Lawley and the Long Mynd.

Despite a couple of navigation errors which added the best part of a mile to the course, Bate finished in a respectable 3 hours 10 minutes.

Eighth defeat of season puts side in seventh spot

WITH two matches remaining Stourbridge conceded their eighth defeat of the season against Sentinel.

Stour are in seventh position in division three of the Birmingham and District league. Four teams face relegation to the recreational leagues.

Brewood and Worcester Nomads who hold the two bottom spots have each lost 13 matches and must be the favourites for the drop. Two more from pack of six including Stour are vulnerable to be in the drop zone depending on the outcomes of the two remaining games.

Put in to bat Stour went past the double hundred their top order doing a job Harshad Patel (44), Jujhar Johal (78), Zain Ul Hassan (44) and a cameo of 45 off 21 balls from Matt Bradley. Andrew Harrison took four wickets in the final overs of the 50 overs match for 38 runs off 10 overs. He restricted Stour from the big shots that were needed to get them to a safety.

In the Sentinel knock Stour bowlers struggled on a batting wicket to take wickets and contain the run rate.

Stourbridge withstand Otley fightback

Otley 21 Stourbridge 42

THE starting line up included four making their debut for Stourbridge, captain Sam Pailor, Niall Gibbons, Steve Leach and George Morgan.

Stour also welcomed back Llyr Griffiths who last played for the club nine years ago and Jack Spencer. On the bench was Charlie Jeavons-Fellows, extending the J-F Dynasty by another generation.

The crowd saw the visitors get off to a flying start when, after just four minutes, full back Joe Heatley was sent over to get the first points of the season. Chris Scott added the extras and it was game on!

A strong carry by Sam Pailor led to a penalty in front of the posts with the visitors opting for the three points taken by Scott. Otley kicked off the second half and it only took two minutes for another debut try, this time by Morgan after hHe ghosted through several tackles. Just four minutes later the ball was sent to Niall Gibbons for another debut try which was converted by Petty.

A superb forwards effort drove over the line on 52 minutes giving Stour a 32-point lead including a Petty conversion. However, the hosts fought back to 14-32 and were further rewarded when substitute Henry Watson cleverly gathered a pass almost behind him to score under the posts. Rowntree converted and Otley had a losing bonus point in their sights. However, an incisive running line by Dan Rundle gave Stour an overlap which was snapped up by Joe Heatley who ended the game as he started it.

LIIONS TAMED BY DEFIANT DK

DK 45 Stourbridge Lions 12

DUDLEY Kingswinford secured a win in their opening game of the new season with a 45-12 victory over the newly-promoted Stourbridge Lions.

Just before the 10 minute marker a scrum-mage in the Stour 22, saw DK employ a back row move and an excellent line from Sam Pedley saw the flanker in by the posts. With the conversion missed it was 5-0 to DK.

The good work of the opening quarter was almost thrown away when some poor defending from DK saw Lions through but luckily for DK Ryan Smitheman, covered back from the blind-side wing to put a tackle in and Nic Adams who was able to put in a clearance kick.

DK continued to build the pressure towards half time full back Adams was enjoying a good game returning any Lions kicks.

Just before the break, Adams ran the ball back into the Stour half and linked with Stef Shillingford who kept the move going into the 22, the ball was then onto the forwards in a quick ruck.

Swiftly

Jordan Brookes set the backs going back to the left and the ball was passed swiftly to Smitheman, who was outside his man and in the clubhouse corner for a second try to take a 10-0 lead into half time.

The second half saw DK maintain their tempo playing in the Stourbridge half. Will Hancox broke the defensive line and was in the 22, Shillingford supporting was in under the posts, Jordan Brookes added the extras for 17-0.

Sam Pedley charged for the line, DK recycled quickly and the next forward waiting was Arran Hudson, who crashed over for the bonus point try, converted by Adams, for 24-0. Nick Mann reduced the lead to 24-5, with a well taken try.

Pete Griffiths touched down, Adams converted. Then Josh Rowley bagged a second try for the Lions and Joe Carpenter was off under the posts for a penalty try, 38-12. DK's final try was from Ben Brown with Adams adding the extra points.

Cricket T20 proves a smash hit

Himley Cricket Club president Joe Brandrick presents the trophy of Brewood skipper Jamie Lunn

HIMLEY Cricket Club continue to raise the bar with their Black Country Floodlit T20 competition.

Brewood took the spoils when they rounded off a superb week-long tournament with victory over Wolverhampton in the final.

Stourbridge, Wolverhampton, a Staffs Clubs XI and hosts Himley completed the line-up with all sides able to include a number of guest players from other clubs.

It was a case of third time lucky for Brewood after missing out in the previous two finals, the real winners were the local cricket fans.

They were treated to excitement during what by common consent was the best T20 tournament to date.

Bruce Thomason plundered a century for Brewood in the final while Whittington's big-hitting Australian Jayden Levitt also reached three figures for the Staffs Clubs XI and Halesowen respectively. Zimbabwe all-rounder Tendai Chisoro was voted player of the tournament for a series of eye-catching displays that fired Brewood to glory.

"It felt like it was the best competition we have staged so far," said captain Greg Wright.

Glassboys on the glory trail again

Stourbridge 2 Hednesford Town 0

A GOAL in either half saw off Hednesford Town at the War Memorial Ground on Monday night.

Matt Dodd, who left Hednesford last week, was back at Stourbridge and was in the starting XI against his previous employers.

He was outstanding throughout and behind a lot of Stourbridge's attacking play, providing a chance for Josh Green on 15 minutes with a great cross, but again it went wide.

Jordan Archer scored a cracking opener on 32 with a drive from 20 yards that shaved the post before it went in.

Ryan Rowe had the ball in the net just before the break but it was ruled out for offside. But Rowe did get on the scoresheet on 64 minutes when he got a touch to a Jack Duggan header which was going in.

Loughboro Dynamo 1 Stourbridge 3

Stourbridge will entertain Colney Heath in the FA Cup second qualifying round after defeating Loughborough on Saturday.

The Glassboys - who reached last season's third round proper, beating League One Northampton Town along the way - were on top throughout the game. The home side offered little in attack though Edison Antonio headed wide just before the break.

Stour have also signed winger Pierce Kiemi from Chasetown, along with midfielder Alex Solomon.

Yeltz in a second half cup nightmare

Halesowen Town 0 Basford United 3 OUT-CLASSED Halesowen were dumped out of the FA Cup by lower league Basford after conceding three goals in a disastrous eight minutes at the start of the second half.

There was little to choose between the teams in an even first period. Bradley Lewis cleared off the line from Basford's Kieran Wells and Halesowen's Luke Shearer blazed over the bar just before the interval.

But it all went wrong after the break for Halesowen as Basford romped victory with goals from James Reid, Liam Hearn and Ashley Grayson.
